

“The student volunteers have been a pleasure to host, they've been hard working and compassionate to our service users and we hope to welcome you back in the future.”

“STAR Conversation Club has been a deeply meaningful part of my time at Warwick. Through this role, I was able to meet people from diverse backgrounds and support them in building confidence in communicating in English. This experience showed me that volunteering is not only about offering help, but also about listening, building trust and creating a warm space where people feel respected and understood. It has deepened my understanding of community, inclusion and the importance of human connection.”

“Nature Conservation Volunteers has been the bedrock of my university experience. It has allowed me to engage with the wider volunteering community and fundamentally make a positive difference to the local green area.

By working with different community partners, you really get a feel of the supportive network that exists as you become a vital part in their success. Not only are NCV sessions a great way to meet new people, they're also ideal to get some fresh air and keep fit!
