Specifications are updated over time. Whilst every effort is made to check all documents, there may be contradictions between published resources and the specification, therefore please use the information on the latest specification at all times. Where changes are made to specifications these will be indicated within the document, there will be a new version number indicated, and a summary of the changes. If you do notice a discrepancy between the specification and a resource please contact us at: resources.feedback@ocr.org.uk

We will inform centres about changes to specifications. We will also publish changes on our website. The latest version of our specifications will always be those on our website (ocr.org.uk) and these may differ from printed versions.

Summary of updates 22
1a. Why choose an OCR qualification?

Choose OCR and you’ve got the reassurance that you’re working with one of the UK’s leading exam boards. Our new AS Level in Ancient History course has been developed in consultation with teachers, employers and higher education to provide learners with a qualification that’s relevant to them and meets their needs.

We’re part of the Cambridge Assessment Group, Europe’s largest assessment agency and a department of the University of Cambridge. Cambridge Assessment plays a leading role in developing and delivering assessments throughout the world, operating in over 150 countries.

We work with a range of education providers, including schools, colleges, workplaces and other institutions in both the public and private sectors. Over 13,000 centres choose our A Levels, GCSEs and vocational qualifications including Cambridge Nationals and Cambridge Technicals.

Our Specifications

We believe in developing specifications that help you bring the subject to life and inspire your learners to achieve more.

We’ve created teacher-friendly specifications based on extensive research and engagement with the teaching community. They’re designed to be straightforward and accessible so that you can tailor the delivery of the course to suit your needs. We aim to encourage students to become responsible for their own learning, confident in discussing ideas, innovative and engaged.

We provide a range of support services designed to help you at every stage, from preparation through to the delivery of our specifications. This includes:

- A wide range of high-quality creative resources including:
  - Delivery Guides
  - Transition Guides
  - Topic Exploration Packs
  - Lesson Elements
  - ... and much more.

- Access to subject advisors to support you through the transition and throughout the lifetimes of the specifications.

- CPD/Training for teachers to introduce the qualifications and prepare you for first teaching.

- Active Results – our free results analysis service to help you review the performance of individual learners or whole schools.

All AS Level qualifications offered by OCR are accredited by Ofqual, the Regulator for qualifications offered in England. The accreditation number for OCR’s AS Level in Ancient History is QN: 603/0806/0.
1b. Why choose an OCR AS Level in Ancient History?

OCR’s AS Level in Ancient History has been designed to help learners develop their understanding of the ancient world and the legacy of the ancient world in today’s society.

We have designed this qualification with teachers and learners in mind, having consulted extensively across the United Kingdom to ensure that OCR’s AS Level in Ancient History engages learners, develops a desire within them to continue learning about ancient history and helps develop a lifelong enthusiasm for the ancient world.

Our AS Level in Ancient History provides:

- engaging and exciting content – exciting topic areas which will enthuse learners, creating an appealing study of the ancient world
- clearly laid out requirements – the specification clearly details the content that you are required to cover to allow you to prepare your learners with confidence
- straightforward assessment – the question papers contain simple rubrics and clear mark schemes, which will provide clear assessments
- an accessible route into studying Classics – our specifications do not require any previous study of a classical subject or knowledge of Classical Greek or Latin language
- increased support and guidance – OCR will provide a range of high quality, creative resources, which will grow throughout the lifetime of the specification.

Aims and learning outcomes

OCR’s AS Level in Ancient History will enable learners to:

- develop a broad and extensive interest in the military, political, religious and social history of the ancient world
- acquire in-depth knowledge and understanding of selected periods of ancient history and use this knowledge and understanding to formulate coherent arguments with substantiated judgements
- understand Greek and Roman history in the context of their neighbouring civilisations and the interrelations of these civilisations
- explore and evaluate the significance of events, individuals, issues, identities and societies in the history of the ancient world
- understand the nature of historical evidence from the ancient world and its scarcity to build an understanding of historical periods studied and the methods used in the analysis and evaluation of evidence. Students should develop an understanding of how the ancient past has been represented by ancient historians
- develop an understanding of historical concepts such as change, continuity, causation, consequence and significance within the context of the historical periods studied
- develop an awareness and understanding of relevant historical debates and how these can be investigated
- develop the ability to make connections and draw comparisons between different periods, individuals, issues, identities and societies of the ancient past.
1c. What are the key features of this specification?

The key features of OCR’s AS Level in Ancient History for you and your learners are:

- familiar topics to study covering the most prominent parts of Greek and Roman history
- a clear and balanced structure that will help course planning
- a straightforward specification with detailed guidance to support delivery
- this course is co-teachable with our A Level in Ancient History specification.

1d. What is new in OCR AS Level in Ancient History?

Both components include synoptic assessment.
2b. Content of AS Level in Ancient History (H007)

Learners taking the AS Level in Ancient History will need to study significant events, individuals, societies, developments and issues within their broad historical context demonstrating breadth through the study.

Learners will study two period studies.

The period studies will allow learners to study the unfolding narrative of a substantial span of Greek and Roman history of at least 75 years. The length of the period study will encourage learners to develop their interest in, and understanding of the important events, individuals, developments and issues, and provides sufficient chronological range to be able to comment on change, both short-term and long-term.

Component 01 is a source-based Greek period study focusing on the relationships between Greek city-states and also the relationships between Greek city-states and the Persian Empire in the period 492–404 BC.

Component 02 is a source-based Roman period study focusing on the Julio-Claudian dynasty, from 31 BC to AD 68.
2c. Content of period study

Introduction to the Greek and Roman period study

In the Greek period study, the focus will be on the unfolding narrative of the relations between Greek city-states and the relationship between Greek city-states and the Persian Empire in the period 492–404 BC. Learners will study the main events and issues in order to understand how these events and issues shaped these developments.

The Roman period study will focus on the unfolding narrative of the establishment and development of the principate under Augustus, Tiberius, Gaius, Claudius and Nero.

Knowledge, understanding and skills

The length of the period study will encourage learners to develop their interest in, and understanding of the important events, individuals, developments and issues, and provides sufficient chronological range to be able to study continuity and change. This will allow learners to analyse the causes, significance and consequences of key historical events, and the changes and developments in the historical periods. Learners should be able to make links and draw comparisons between different aspects of the period or society studied.

Learners will be required to demonstrate an understanding of the key historical terms and concepts relevant to the topics studied including change, continuity, causation, consequence and significance. Learners will be required to demonstrate knowledge and understanding, and analyse and evaluate, the significance of events, individuals, groups, developments and ideas in the topic studied in order to reach substantiated judgements.

Learners should be able to demonstrate an understanding of the relationships between different aspects of the period studied. They should make connections, draw contrasts and analyse trends such as between economic, political, social, religious and military history; and between short and long-term timescales.

The period study requires the critical use of ancient source material in analysing and evaluating historical questions, problems and issues. Different types of evidence must be analysed and evaluated and learners need to understand the usefulness and limitations of the ancient source evidence studied and how this affects the conclusions that can be drawn. It will require learners to deal with the contexts in which evidence was written or produced and assess the reliability of the evidence.

Learners will be required to demonstrate the ability to create their own evidence-based structured arguments, selecting, organising and communicating their knowledge and understanding of both the historical events studied and the ancient source material to reach substantiated conclusions.

A detailed assessment overview can be found in Section 3 of the specification.
2c. Content of H007/01: Relations between Greek states and between Greek and non-Greek states, 492–404 BC

This period study will focus on the unfolding narrative of the relations between the Greek city-states, particularly Athens and Sparta, and between Greek city-states and the Persian Empire during the period 492–404 BC. Learners will study the changes in relations between states and the substantial developments in inter-state relations between both Greek and non-Greek states. Learners will study the main events and issues in order to understand how these shaped these developments.

Appendix 5d lists the sources covering the contents of the period study.
2d. Prior knowledge, learning and progression

The specification builds on the knowledge, understanding and skills specified for GCSE (9–1) Ancient History, however, prior attainment of a GCSE qualification in Ancient History is not required.

Learners in England who are beginning an AS Level course are likely to have followed a Key Stage 4 programme of study. This course will enable learners to progress to A Level courses or progress directly to employment.

AS Level in Ancient History provides progression to A Level in Ancient History.

A Level examinations build on the content studied for the two AS Level components, meaning that this qualification is co-teachable with the first year of study of the A Level.

At the same time, it also offers a worthwhile course of study for learners who do not wish to progress further in the subject. The key skills required by the specification provide opportunities for progression directly into employment.

3 Assessment of AS Level in Ancient History

3a. Forms of assessment

OCR’s AS Level in Ancient History consists of two components that are both externally assessed.

Relations between Greek states and between Greek and non-Greek states, 492–404 BC (H007/01) and The Julio-Claudian Emperors, 31 BC–AD 68 (H007/02)

Both of these components are externally assessed, written examinations testing AO1, AO2 and AO3.

Each component is worth 60 marks, which represents 50% of the total marks for the AS Level.

Each examination lasts for 1 hour 30 minutes.

There are two sections in each component. Learners answer all the questions in Section A and one question in Section B.

Section A consists of questions 1 and 2. In Question 1, learners will answer a 10-mark question relating to an issue, which relates to one or more of the content points within one of the key time spans.

In Question 2, learners will answer a 20-mark source based mini-essay. Learners will be required to use the stimulus material on the question paper and other ancient sources they have studied to answer the question.

In Section B, learners will have a choice between answering Question 3 or Question 4. These will be essay questions each worth 30 marks, requiring learners to use, analyse and evaluate the ancient source material that they have studied in order to answer the issues addressed in the question.

3b. Assessment objectives (AO)

There are three Assessment Objectives in OCR AS Level Ancient History. These are detailed in the table below.

Learners are expected to:

3c. Assessment availability

There will be one examination series available each year in May / June to all learners. All examined components must be taken in the same examination series at the end of the course.

This specification will be certificated from the June 2018 examination series onwards.

3d. Retaking the qualification

Learners can retake the qualification as many times as they wish. They retake all components of the qualification.

3e. Assessment of extended response

The assessment materials for this qualification provide learners with the opportunity to demonstrate their ability to construct and develop a sustained and coherent line of reasoning and marks for extended responses are integrated into the marking criteria.

3f. Synoptic assessment

Synoptic assessment is the learners understanding of the connections between different elements of the subject. It involves the explicit drawing together of knowledge, skills and understanding within different parts of the AS Level course.

The emphasis of synoptic assessment is to encourage the understanding of Ancient History as a discipline.

Synoptic assessment draws together all three of the distinct assessment objectives in OCR’s AS Level in Ancient History. Synoptic assessment can be found in the essay questions (Questions 3 and 4) in both components.

3g. Calculating qualification results

A learner’s overall qualification grade for AS Level in Ancient History will be calculated by adding together their marks from the two components taken to give their total weighted mark. This mark will then be compared to the qualification level grade boundaries for the relevant exam series to determine the learner’s overall qualification grade.
The information in this section is designed to give an overview of the processes involved in administering this qualification so that you can speak to your exams officer. All of the following processes require you to submit something to OCR by a specific deadline.

More information about the processes and deadlines involved at each stage of the assessment cycle can be found in the Administration area of the OCR website.

OCR’s Admin overview is available on the OCR website at http://www.ocr.org.uk/administration

4a. Pre-assessment

Estimated entries

Estimated entries are your best projection of the number of learners who will be entered for a qualification in a particular series.

Estimated entries should be submitted to OCR by the specified deadline. They are free and do not commit your centre in any way.

Final entries

Final entries provide OCR with detailed data for each learner, showing each assessment to be taken. It is essential that you use the correct entry code, considering the relevant entry rules.

Final entries must be submitted to OCR by the published deadlines or late entry fees will apply.

All learners taking an AS Level in Ancient History must be entered for H007.

4b. Special consideration

Special consideration is a post-assessment adjustment to marks or grades to reflect temporary injury, illness or other indisposition at the time the assessment was taken.

Detailed information about eligibility for special consideration can be found in the JCQ publication A guide to the special consideration process.
4c. External assessment arrangements

Regulations governing examination arrangements are contained in the JCQ Instructions for conducting examinations.

Head of centre annual declaration

The Head of Centre is required to provide a declaration to the JCQ as part of the annual NCN update, conducted in the autumn term, to confirm that the centre is meeting all of the requirements detailed in the specification.

Any failure by a centre to provide the Head of Centre Annual Declaration will result in your centre status being suspended and could lead to the withdrawal of our approval for you to operate as a centre.

Private Candidates

Private candidates may enter for OCR assessments.

A private candidate is someone who pursues a course of study independently but takes an examination or assessment at an approved examination centre. A private candidate may be a part-time student, someone taking a distance learning course, or someone being tutored privately. They must be based in the UK.

Private candidates need to contact OCR approved centres to establish whether they are prepared to host them as a private candidate. The centre may charge for this facility and OCR recommends that the arrangement is made early in the course.

Further guidance for private candidates may be found on the OCR website: http://www.ocr.org.uk

4d. Results and certificates

Grade Scale

AS Level qualifications are graded on the scale: A, B, C, D, E, where A is the highest. Learners who fail to reach the minimum standard for E will be Unclassified (U). Only subjects in which grades A to E are attained will be recorded on certificates.

Results

Results are released to centres and learners for information and to allow any queries to be resolved before certificates are issued.

Centres will have access to the following results information for each learner:
- the grade for the qualification
- the raw mark for each component
- the total weighted mark for the qualification.

The following supporting information will be available:
- raw mark grade boundaries for each component
- weighted mark grade boundaries for the qualification.

Until certificates are issued, results are deemed to be provisional and may be subject to amendment.

A learner’s final results will be recorded on an OCR certificate. The qualification title will be shown on the certificate as ‘OCR Level 3 Advanced Subsidiary GCE in Ancient History’.
4e. Post-results services

A number of post-results services are available:

- Review of marking requests – If you are not happy with the outcome of a learner’s results, centres may request a review of marking. Full details of the post-results services are provided on the OCR website.

- Missing and incomplete results – This service should be used if an individual subject result for a learner is missing, or the learner has been omitted entirely from the results supplied.

- Access to scripts – Centres can request access to marked scripts.

4f. Malpractice

Any breach of the regulations for the conduct of examinations and non-exam assessment may constitute malpractice (which includes maladministration) and must be reported to OCR as soon as it is detected. Detailed information on malpractice can be found in the JCQ publication Suspected Malpractice in Examinations and Assessments: Policies and Procedures.
5  Appendices

5a.  Accessibility

Reasonable adjustments and access arrangements allow learners with special educational needs, disabilities or temporary injuries to access the assessment and show what they know and can do, without changing the demands of the assessment. Applications for these should be made before the examination series. Detailed information about eligibility for access arrangements can be found in the JCQ Access Arrangements and Reasonable Adjustments.

The A Level qualification and subject criteria have been reviewed in order to identify any feature which could disadvantage learners who share a protected Characteristic as defined by the Equality Act 2010. All reasonable steps have been taken to minimise any such disadvantage.

5b.  Overlap with other qualifications

There is a small degree of overlap between this specification and the AS Level in Classical Civilisation.
5c. Set ancient sources for H007/01: Relations between Greek states and between Greek and non-Greek states, 492–404 BC

Literary evidence
