3. Teaching and learning.

Please comment on the quality of the teaching and of your opportunity to learn in this module (consider such aspects as expertise, pace and clarity of lecturing, enthusiasm, rapport with the group, availability to answer questions).

Has the balance between tutor's presentation of topics and students' discussion of them is right, or is weighted too much to one particular side?

10/10 for teaching. David is always enthusiastic & knowledgeable, sharing that expertise in a way that makes the student feel as though they are discovering & progressing on their own want.

Good weighting of presentation & discussion, feel strongly that I have benefited from the structure & weighting.

4. Your contribution.

Please comment on your own participation in this module.

Has the reading you have done in your own time has been adequate or not?

How many hours do you spend preparing for the seminar each week?

Do you feel able to contribute to seminar discussions and ask questions? If not, why not?

Has your contribution to class discussion has helped to further both your understanding of the subject?

How well prepared did you feel to complete your assignment?

I could have done more reading. I spend roughly 1 hour / 1.5 hours a week preparing for the seminar but generally do so before the lecture so I know what to expect. I feel confident in the class & can contribute.

5. Comments and suggestions.

Please identify any features of this module which are particularly successful, and suggest ways in which less successful features might be improved.

Please also note any issues you would like taken into consideration in the planning and delivery of the remainder of the module.

Lecture recordings are particularly helpful because I can listen in the lecture and not worry about frantically taking notes.
