What can applied linguistics bring to healthcare research?

This virtual seminar will enable you to hear more about research on language and communication within healthcare contexts. This event provides an inter-disciplinary networking opportunity and discussion forum for researchers who work with or are interested in working with healthcare data. This event is aimed at staff and students from Warwick Medical School and Warwick Applied Linguistics, but all Warwick students and staff are welcome.

Thursday 25th March 11.00am-12.30pm GMT (Microsoft Teams)

If you would like to join us please complete the registration form on the event web page - https://warwick.ac.uk/fac/cross_fac/ias/calendar/applied-linguistics
