

Civil society and entrepreneurial ecosystems: the case of Citizens UK and Birmingham's microbusinesses

ESRC DTP Collaborative Studentship

Aston University and Citizens UK Birmingham

The Midlands Graduate School is an accredited Economic and Social Research Council (ESRC) Doctoral Training Partnership (DTP). One of 14 such partnerships in the UK, the Midlands Graduate School is a collaboration between the University of Warwick, Aston University, University of Birmingham, University of Leicester, Loughborough University and the University of Nottingham.

Aston University as part of Midlands Graduate School is now inviting applications for an ESRC Doctoral Studentship in association with our collaborative partner Citizens UK Birmingham to commence in October 2019.

The collaborative studentship is for an action research study with the Centre for Research in Ethnic Minority Entrepreneurship (CREME), based at Aston University, and Citizens UK Birmingham (CUK). It will investigate the role that civil society can play in facilitating a more inclusive business support environment (or 'ecosystem') in Birmingham.

The main research questions are:

1. What is the role of civil society in developing inclusive entrepreneurial ecosystems?
2. How can CUK be supported to engage in this agenda?
3. How can the social (as well as economic) contribution of migrant businesses be assessed?
4. What institutional arrangements are required to ensure that migrant entrepreneurs are integrated into the 'mainstream' business support system?

The study will be interventionist in nature and will be undertaken in collaboration with CUK. The student will work closely with CUK Birmingham as well as the supervisory team at CREME. An interdisciplinary approach to action research will be employed because of its capacity to produce sound explanations of social reality, and its practical utility in helping the Collaborating Organisation to promote meaningful change. The intervention will support CUK Birmingham in its plans to provide business support to entrepreneurs in the some of the most deprived areas of the City. By establishing 'what works and how' in relation to the role of civil society in supporting microbusinesses, it is anticipated that the results will be generalizable to other similar contexts.

Entry Requirements

An undergraduate degree in a social sciences or related discipline with at least 2:1 is essential and the eventual award may be made as 1+3/3.5/+3 dependent on prior qualifications and training. A Masters degree with a high grade (65% average or above) is essential for a +3 award or a +3.5 award. For 1+3 awards, we welcome applicants with a higher degree in a relevant discipline. A successful 1+3 applicant who does not hold a Masters with an average of 65% or above, would be required to achieve an average of 65% or more in the Social Science Research Masters in order to progress to the PhD programme and the +3 award.

Application Process
