

Queering the Past

SEX AND LOVE IN STUART ENGLAND

Queering the Past

SEX AND LOVE IN STUART ENGLAND

Queering the Past: Sex and Love in Stuart England

Online Symposium
Saturday 7th November, 1pm - 4.30pm

Same sex relationships in the 17th century

Fulke Greville, Lord Brooke was a famous courtier and poet and owner of Warwick Castle. He is remembered also as a friend of Sir Philip Sidney and his biographer. Greville's deep affection for Sidney is clear both in his writing and his actions. But what conclusions can be drawn about their relationship from the perspective of the 21st century?

More widely what evidence exists for same sex relationships in the 17th century. Our speakers will be exploring this topic through personal and legal records mainly focussing on male relationships. This will be followed by a discussion where there will be an opportunity to submit questions.

Compere - Matthew Storey - collections curator at Historic Royal Palaces and works on LGBTQ+ research.

Speakers

Dr Paul Hunneyball - assistant editor at the History of Parliament Trust, specialising in the late 16th and early 17th centuries.

Dr Fiona McCall - A senior lecturer in history at the University of Portsmouth, specialising in 16th and 17th century religious and social history.

Jon Sleigh - freelance Learning Curator, arts educator and writer.

Dr Rictor Norton - social and literary historian and writer, specialising in queer history on homosexual themes in English Renaissance literature.

Tickets £10 + booking fee.

Book at www.warwickshire.gov.uk/heritageboxoffice

Warwickshire
County Council

Queering the Past: Sex and Love in Stuart England

Online Symposium
Saturday 7th November, 1pm - 4.30pm

Same sex relationships in the 17th century

Fulke Greville, Lord Brooke was a famous courtier and poet and owner of Warwick Castle. He is remembered also as a friend of Sir Philip Sidney and his biographer. Greville's deep affection for Sidney is clear both in his writing and his actions. But what conclusions can be drawn about their relationship from the perspective of the 21st century?

More widely what evidence exists for same sex relationships in the 17th century. Our speakers will be exploring this topic through personal and legal records mainly focussing on male relationships. This will be followed by a discussion where there will be an opportunity to submit questions.

Compere - Matthew Storey - collections curator at Historic Royal Palaces and works on LGBTQ+ research.

Speakers

Dr Paul Hunneyball - assistant editor at the History of Parliament Trust, specialising in the late 16th and early 17th centuries.

Dr Fiona McCall - A senior lecturer in history at the University of Portsmouth, specialising in 16th and 17th century religious and social history.

Jon Sleigh - freelance Learning Curator, arts educator and writer.

Dr Rictor Norton - social and literary historian and writer, specialising in queer history on homosexual themes in English Renaissance literature.

Tickets £10 + booking fee.

Book at www.warwickshire.gov.uk/heritageboxoffice

Warwickshire
County Council