

Narmin Ghaffari Laleh

RWTH University Hospital, Aachen, Germany

Narmin Ghaffari Laleh is a research scientist and software engineer in Kather Lab (www.kather.ai) at RWTH Aachen University in Germany in the heart of Europe. Her current main responsibilities are the development and improvement of the artificial intelligence algorithms for digitized histopathology images. She graduated from Friedrich-Schiller-University Jena, Germany, with a Master's degree in Medical Photonics and with more than 5 years of programming experience including 2 years of working in an industry (Carl Zeiss Meditec, Jena, Germany). Her main interests include explainable and trustable AI in medical applications.

