Peter Neidlinger

Technical University Dresden, Dresden, Germany

Peter Neidlinger is a medical student at Friedrich-Alexander-University Erlangen-Nuremberg, currently doing a research project in computational pathology under the supervision of Prof. Jakob Kather at Technical University Dresden. He previously worked on his MD thesis about immunometabolism in colorectal cancer. His current focus is on weakly supervised biomarker prediction from histopathology images, with the goal of advancing foundation models in digital pathology.