

Tong Ding

Harvard Medical School, Boston, USA

Tong Ding is a second-year Ph.D. student in Computer Science at Harvard University and Brigham and Women's Hospital, working with Prof. Faisal Mahmood. His current research focus is on developing multimodal foundation models for computational pathology. Before this, he received his master's degree in computational biology at Harvard University, advised by Prof. Faisal Mahmood.

