Zhilong Weng

University Hospital Cologne, Cologne, Germany

Zhilong Weng is a PhD student at the University of Cologne and the University Hospital Cologne, supervised by Yuri Tolkach. He got his master's degree in Computational Engineering from the Technical University of Darmstadt in Germany, where he focused on computer vision research, including traditional image processing and deep learning-based image detection. His current research focuses on advancing artificial intelligence applications in computational pathology.