

Andrew Zhang

Harvard Medical School, Boston, USA

Andrew Zhang is a 4th-year PhD student in the Harvard-MIT Health Sciences and Technology Program, working in the lab of Dr. Faisal Mahmood at Harvard Medical School. Prior to his PhD, Andrew studied cell biology and computer science at Harvard. His work centers on advancing self-supervised representation learning at multiple biological and temporal scales: from encoding a single pathology slide to encoding entire longitudinal medical histories.

