

Ficts are one the oldest forms of life on the planets Alias and Bias.

They are renowned for the extraordinary configurations into which they organise themselves, and have been the subject of scientific study on both planets.

Principle inhabitants of Alias are the A-I: they have a highly intelligent and technologically advanced civilisation.

The inhabitants of Bias are the B-O: a people infamous for their powerful scent who are less advanced in scientific matters, but have a well-developed sense of humour.
