MSc Environmental Bioscience in a Changing Climate 2010

“I started working for Molson Coors while I was still completing my MSc project. My role was using skills I developed during my course in sustainability accounting. I was lucky to be able to support Molson Coors in developing its first sustainability strategy and to grow my role while I was working there. I am now their Global Sustainability Manager.

Be ambitious to make positive change in the world in what ever subject you are taking or role you end up in.”
