

Babies don't come with instructions

Tell us how we can best support families like yours.

If you are a parent on a drug or alcohol programme and you are the main carer of a child under two and a half, you can take part in the Parents Under Pressure™ study.

Researchers at Warwick Medical School would like to find out how Parents Under Pressure™ – a new service – compares with the support already available to families like yours.

For more information about how you can take part:

- speak to your drug or alcohol worker
- call Sukhi Sembi at Warwick Medical School on 02476 150508 or 07824 541002.

Warwick
Medical School

NSPCC

Babies don't come with instructions

Tell us how we can best support families like yours.

If you are a parent on a drug or alcohol programme and you are the main carer of a child under two and a half, you can take part in the Parents Under Pressure™ study.

Researchers at Warwick Medical School would like to find out how Parents Under Pressure™ – a new service – compares with the support already available to families like yours.

For more information about how you can take part:

- speak to your drug or alcohol worker
- call Sukhi Sembi at Warwick Medical School on 02476 150508 or 07824 541002.

Warwick
Medical School

NSPCC

Babies don't come with instructions

Tell us how we can best support families like yours.

If you are a parent on a drug or alcohol programme and you are the main carer of a child under two and a half, you can take part in the Parents Under Pressure™ study.

Researchers at Warwick Medical School would like to find out how Parents Under Pressure™ – a new service – compares with the support already available to families like yours.

For more information about how you can take part:

- speak to your drug or alcohol worker
- call Sukhi Sembi at Warwick Medical School on 02476 150508 or 07824 541002.

Warwick
Medical School

