

Student Opportunity Newsletter, Week Nine

As we approach the end of term, we hope you are powering through and looking forward to the vacation period. This week, there are some opportunities you can apply to be involved in for the coming year, a chance to have your voice heard and a couple of podcast episodes to inspire you.

Have your say

We are planning next term's job application support and international employment opportunities events to help you feel ready for your career. Complete this two-minute survey to enable us to tailor events to your needs.

TeamWork Warwick

Applications are open for TeamWork Warwick – an online programme which allows you to collaborate on a multi-disciplinary project with other Warwick undergraduates. Taking place for 10 hours per week for two weeks between 11 March to 22 March 2024, the programme is designed to improve your work experience, employability skills and personal development. It provides all the same benefits as the four week TeamWork Summer programme, plus £200 bursary places are available for UK home undergraduates who belong to demographic groups which are underrepresented in Higher Education. The Skillscast: Undergraduate Research Support Scheme special

The latest episode of the Skillscast covers the Undergraduate Research Support Scheme (URSS). Listen to four students who completed the URSS in 2023 – they talk about why they got involved, what projects they worked on and what they got out of it. Find out more about URSS ahead of applications opening next week.

Do you have any pre-loved or unwanted workwear you could donate?

The first Workwear Wardrobe pop-up was a huge success, with over 120kg of clothing made available at the Autumn Careers Fair to help you get interview-ready and work-ready. We're seeking donations for this sustainable initiative, which will pop-up again in January 2024. Drop off points are located around campus. Find out more
