

ELECTRON MICROSCOPY in Physics

1970's

The Electron Microscopy laboratory within the Physics Department was formed in 1965 to service the needs of a number of applied (materials) physics research groups at the birth of the department. It has expanded over the past 40 years, with at least 2 Transmission Electron Microscopes and 2 Scanning Electron Microscopes available for use, to which have been added x-ray analytical equipment.

1980's

1990's

2005

