WIE/ WIHEA Promotions Support

Warwick Institute of Engagement's Promotion and Reward Learning Circle team up with WIHEA each year to run this series of support workshops for academic staff looking to apply for a promotion. The WIE session will specifically focus on supporting you with your Impact, Outreach and Engagement case. The WIHEA sessions, which run immediately afterwards and talk through the process more broadly. You can book for both, or just one. Both sessions will feature presentations from staff recently promoted, some advice on framing applications and plenty of time for questions and answers.

- STF/ SRF/ Associate Professor - Tuesday 7 Nov, 12pm-1:30pm
- Reader/ Professor - Wednesday 15 Nov, 12pm-1:30pm

Public Engagement Masterclasses

Sharing your work with the public - Creating events and activities

Thursday 26 October, 1-4pm, Wolfson Research Exchange, The Library.

With Dr Jamie Gallagher

This workshop will guide you through the ways to create engaging hands on activities based on your research or your area of work. Through exercises and interaction participants will gain understanding of how to communicate more effectively whatever the setting. Ideal for groups or individuals working towards an event or looking for new ideas to share their work.

Taking your presenting skills to the next level

Wednesday 14 February, 1:30-4:30pm, Ramphal

With Anna Ploszajski

If you're a keen public engager who'd like to know how to make your presentations more impactful then this is the session for you. We've invited Anna Ploszajski, an award winning communicator, to join us for this multidisciplinary engagement masterclass on taking your presentations to the next level. We're especially encouraging those who are signed up to take part in the Resonate Festival of Science and Technology to come along to this session with their planned presentations in mind.

Infotopia: How to create impactful infographics

Ready to engage audiences, drive change and unleash your impact?

Part 1: E-Course - sign up and complete at any point between now and 31 July 2024

The bulk of the learning for this course is done through a self directed online E-course. This can be completed in your own time, however registration for the course must be completed ASAP. You'll receive an email explaining how to access the course upon registration.

Part 2: E-Course Follow up Q&A Workshop

Thursday 2 November, 12-1pm, Zoom or Tuesday 5 March, 12-1pm.

This follow up workshop is optional, but is your chance to ask questions about the content from the E-course, and also contains additional information which will compliment what you've learnt.

Conference of Multimodality in Early Interactions (CoMEIn)

Dear colleagues,

It is our pleasure to invite you to the Conference of Multimodality in Early Interactions (CoMEIn) for ECRs, to be held on the 18th of April 2024 at the University of Warwick.

“CoMEIn” for ECRs is a one-day interdisciplinary conference that aims to provide a platform for PhD students and post-doctoral researchers to share their findings, insights and unique perspectives on the role of multimodality (i.e., various modes of communication such as gesture, prosody, speech etc.) in early caregiver-child interactions, and how this may shape communicative development in the early years. There will be keynote speeches from established scholars on cross-disciplinary topics related to the overarching theme of multimodality in early interactions, as well as a careers talk and Q&A session from a panel of academics in the field, for ECRs to gain insight into securing a job in academia.

As such, we encourage ECRs working on the topic of multimodality in early interactions, to be a part of this wonderful event and secure the opportunity to: present their findings, network with fellow exciting minds in the field, gain insight into academic professional development, and foster the potential for future collaborations. We are inviting two types of contributions: oral presentations or posters.

Submit via email to: Comein.organiser@warwick.ac.uk

Deadline: Friday 22nd December 2023

Student Mobility annual review

I hope the start of the year has gone well. To provide an overview of the academic year just gone, I've attached the link to the Student Mobility annual review which provides an overview of activities undertaken on full-year, short term and virtual mobility.

It was a busy year – and thank you for publicising the short-term events. I hope this year we also receive a lot of interest from students to study overseas on the growing number of opportunities. The purpose of this review is to give you an overview of the numbers and if you wish to lift the charts for Open Days, or for briefing sessions, please feel free. I've included some nice student pieces from short term bursaries and the impact this has made to students' futures. You will also see the long list of work placements – very impressive list of companies. For this year, I also added to the report the list of all our partners and current balances. This is mainly if you wish to think about engaging with other universities, it is interesting to see if we already have a link. Our Study Abroad website also now has a map of the current places available. In the next week or so, our team hope to be able to upload another map linked to student comments which is nice for future students to use. The Instagram pages are also growing in popularity and give some great student stories. Warwick Study Abroad \(@warwickstudyabroad\) • Instagram photos and videos

The Annual review is here if you wish to take a look:

You may also be interested in the Global Opportunities Showcase which will be held on 15 November from 1300. More details will follow on this – but it looks to be an interesting chance to see the wide range of options available.

All the best, and thanks for your help throughout the year.

Best
Helen

Adriano's Study

Hello everyone,

Apologies for being cheeky. I am running a study on the perception of speech disorders and was wondering whether you would like to participate.

It will take no more than 10mins. There will be a surprise at the end.

Please follow the link, should you be interested, and please disseminate as widely as possible.

Second Year Students – Studying Abroad

Dear Departmental colleagues,

The time has come for second year students (and some first year if your department allows it) to consider whether they might be interested in going on their year abroad next year (2024/25)!

The Student Mobility team are hosting two introductory online information sessions about year abroad, how the application process will work and an introduction on timelines for application.

Typically our team are in touch with the Study Abroad Coordinator for your department in November to let you know places available for the next academic year which your students can apply for. Applications are then opened in December. Your departmental Study Abroad Coordinator will then review applications and allocate your departmental places.

Departments often hold their own Study Abroad information events which are fantastic. However we would be grateful if you could also share information about the general Student Mobility sessions in addition. If you would also like a member of the Student Mobility team to attend your departmental session in order to assist with answering questions/just offer some general support then do let us know the time/date/location of your event and we shall do our best to be there.

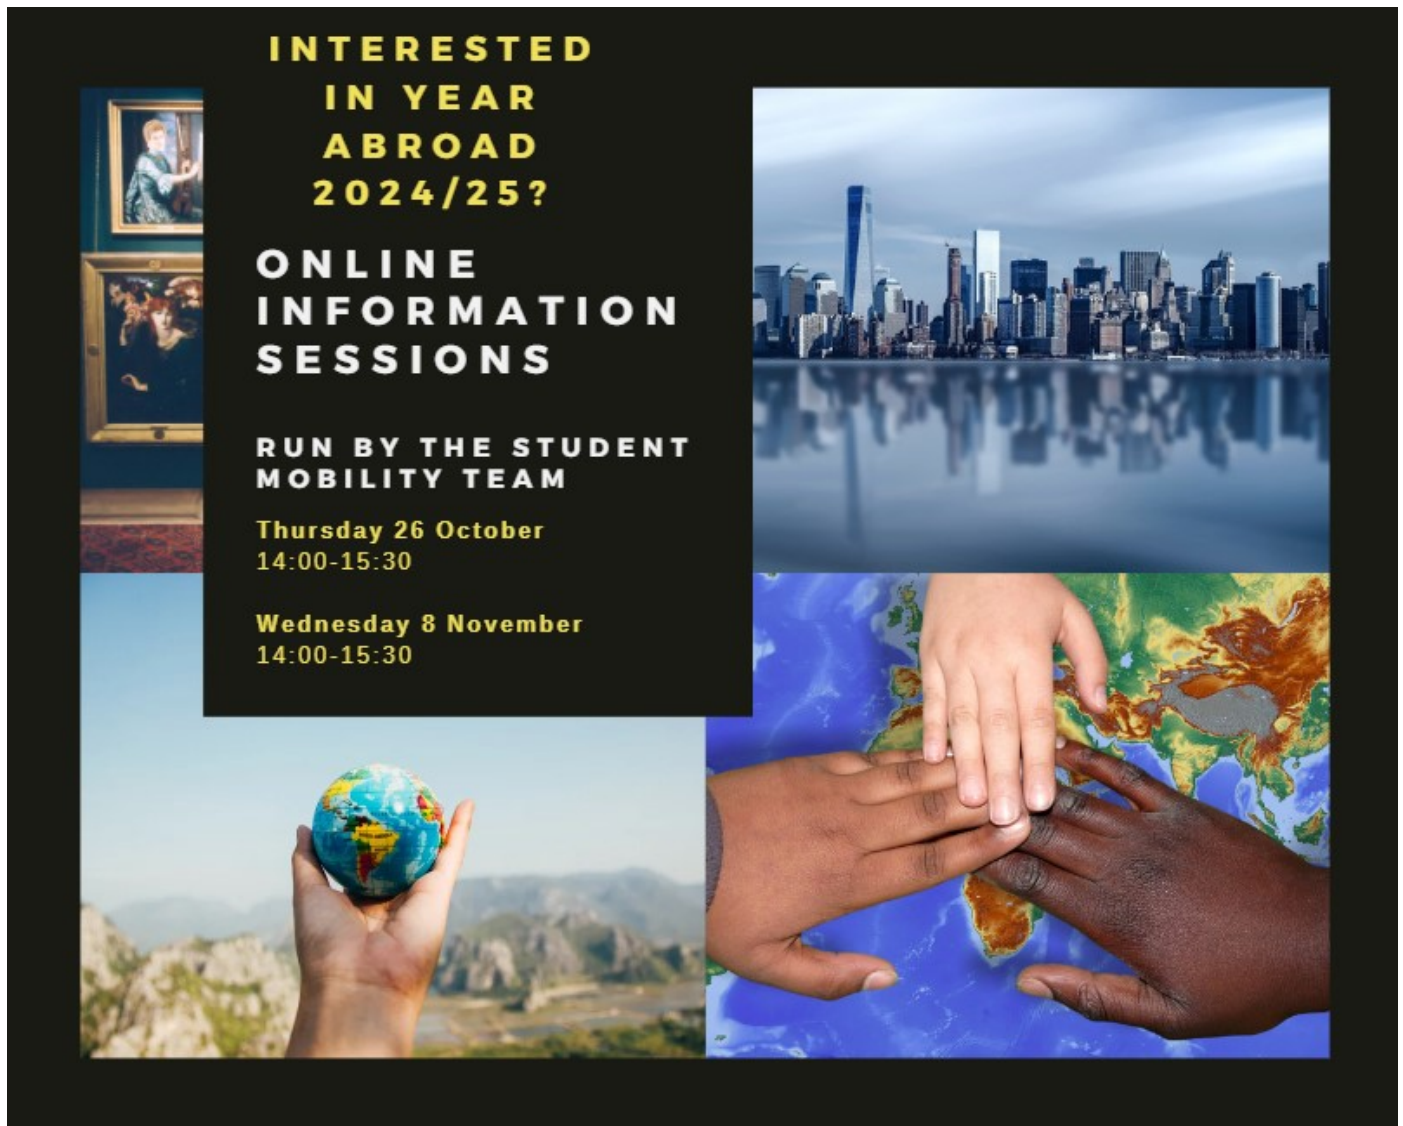

ACTION REQUESTED:

Please can you arrange for the below information regarding the Student Mobility Team information sessions to be circulated to relevant students (usually current second years) within your department so that they can come along online and ask any questions they have. Staff from departments are also very welcome to log on and attend. No registration is required, just click the links. These shall also be posted on the front page of the Student Mobility website in the 'News' section.

Thanks in advance for your help.

Share your passion for Science, Engineering or Computing with the public!

Created by the Department of Physics and Warwick Arts Centre, the annual, award-winning Warwick Christmas Lectures aim to inspire and engage the next generation of scientists. Here at Warwick Institute of Engagement, we're looking for interactive science activities to accompany this year's Christmas Lectures on the evenings of the 30th November and 7th December!

Live Labs are open to staff and students at all levels and all experience.

We welcome activities and interactions based on your research but if you're not ready to share your own work, or you don't do research, there are still plenty of opportunities to deliver interactions.

Could you lead one of these fun science stands? Find out more here.

Best wishes,

Kate

Grant Opportunities

Dear all,

Please see attached the updated list of grant opportunities, compiled by R&IS. One thing to note is that the next deadline for many ESRC responsive mode grants is January 25th.
