Screenr	This is a web-based,
https://www.screenr.co/	Java tool so you don't need to download
	anything on your computer. The
	drawback is that it is slow (waiting for the video to upload).
Screenflow	Expensive but
https://www.telestream.net/screenflow/overview.htm	powerful – another good Mac option.
Jing	Free tool and easy to
https://www.techsmith.com/download/jing/	use. However, it
- intpos// www.conclinitin.com// download/jing/	doesn't have many features. Videos are limited to 5 minutes.
Skitch	Skitch is a screen
https://evernote.com/products/skitch	capture tool with many of the same
	features as Jing. Available just for Mac.
Snaglt	You do have to pay
https://www.techsmith.com/screen-capture.html	for Snaglt, but it has no limit on time and you can publish in Mp4 format.

Collaaj	This works on both https://www.collaaj.com/	Mac and PC. It is also available as an iPad
	app. You can integrate a webcam.
	The free version has
	a limit of 2 minutes.
	Worth considering.
Screencast-O-Matic	This is the best free https://screencast-o-matic.com/	option. It is easy to use and can record
	both webcam and screen. It is available in both Mac and PC.
	It will limit you to 15 minutes and places a
	"Screencast-O-Matic"
	watermark in the corner of the published video. You can download as a
	file or publish to YouTube.
Apple QuickTime	This has a screen
https://support.apple.com/downloads/quicktime	recording function and so is a good starting point for Mac first timers. There is a version available for Microsoft users.

Movenote	This presents your https://chrome.google.com/webstore/detail/movenote-	documents with for-gmail/odgidgkhpecdgiknllkdgcapbpiakbbl?hl=en	video. Movenote ioi giriali/odgiagki/pedagiki/liikageapsplakssi:rii—eri	works within Google docs and provides a fast way to add audio content to
	presentation slides.
	You can add your favourite content from your computer. Free
	but you can remove
	ads for a small
	charge.
Quicktime player	(Mac version ONLY)
https://support.apple.com/downloads/quicktime	has the option to record the screen,
	and the resulting
	footage can be edited
	in iMovie.
Apowersoft	Apowersoft allows
https://www.apowersoft.com/free-online-screen-	you to record both recorder	video and audio on Windows or Mac
	computers. Fairly simple to use. Has the choice of Full-
	Screen mode,
	Custom-Screen mode
	or Webcam Capture
	mode.

FastStone Capture	Allows you to record
http://www.faststone.org/FSCaptureDetail.htm	all screen activities. It has editing tools,
	including annotating
	and cropping.
FastStone Capture	Allows you to record

	has editing tools,
	including annotating
	and cropping.
Screencastify	It works as a Chrome https://www.screencastify.com/	extension. It allows to annotate and edit
	videos once recorded.
	Final product is
	sharable in Google
	Drive or Youtube. A 10-minute recording
	limit as a free version.
Explain Everything	It is an online
https://explaineverything.com/	whiteboard that gives the option to create presentations or to give feedback. There is a free version with some restricted
	features.
