Statements of departmental policy are made in good faith and are an honest attempt to describe current practices. However, the final arbiter of policy and procedure is the University Regulations as laid down in the University Calendar, which can be found on the University Governance webpages (www.warwick.ac.uk/services/gov/).

Information from the Law School

PART A - GENERAL

1. Welcome

Welcome to Warwick Law School. This Guide has been prepared to help you with the formal aspects of your study. In addition to general information about the Law School and its postgraduate programmes, it contains important information about administrative and regulatory issues. We hope that this guide, together with information that you will receive from Warwick Graduate School, will provide a thorough introduction to the arrangements for postgraduate study at Warwick, as well as giving you some idea of how to find your way around the Law School.

2. The Law School and General Information

Contact

Warwick Law School Reception Telephone: 02476 523 075

Email: postgraduate.law@warwick.ac.uk

Postal address: Warwick Law School, University of Warwick, Coventry CV4 7AL, United Kingdom

Where to find us: Law School Reception, Room S0.07C, Social Sciences Building, Library Road, Main Campus.

The School offices are shared between the ground, first and second floors of the Social Sciences Building. You can find room numbers and contact details for Academic and Administrative staff on the Law School website People pages and rooms can be located using the Interactive Campus Map.
Teaching Locations

The Law School uses teaching spaces in the Social Sciences, Ramphal, Maths and Stats, Humanities and Oculus buildings and also in the Library and Sciences Concourse. Room numbers are shown on students’ individual Tabula timetable. Rooms can be located using the Interactive Campus Map: https://warwick.ac.uk/about/visiting/maps/interactive

Study Space

Law School Student Hub: Ground floor, Law School.

Postgraduate Hub: Senate House. Space made available by the University solely for the use of postgraduate students. For details of what facilities the Hub has to offer (including meeting space, quiet study areas and dissertation advice) opening times and booking forms, visit the webpage: https://warwick.ac.uk/services/library/using/libspaces/

Flexible study spaces can also be found in the Learning Grids. Please see the link above for further details.

Emergency Contact Information

Please telephone 02476 523075 or email law@warwick.ac.uk during normal office hours. Outside of these hours, for emergency support contact the Campus Control Centre on 024 7652 2222 or visit https://warwick.ac.uk/services/supportservices for further information.
Communication in the Law School

Email is the primary way in which you will receive messages about your timetable, work assignments, examinations, changes to groups or class times, requests for students to see a lecturer or one of the administrative staff, and so on. You must use your Warwick email account for all communications with the Law School and University. We appreciate that students can receive high volumes of email. At the Law School we do our best to minimise what we will send out to you but do please look out for emails from postgraduate.law@warwick.ac.uk

Teaching staff set aside regular "feedback and advice hours" during each week in term time, when they undertake to be in their rooms and available to see students. Feedback and advice hours, as well as email addresses can be found on the Law School People Pages. The most efficient way to contact a member of staff outside office hours is by e-mail. You may call staff on their office phones but generally speaking it is best to email or visit staff during feedback hours, or some other time by agreement.

Cancelled Lectures and Seminars

Students will be notified as soon as possible by email (within Student Services office hours) if a particular class is cancelled due to unforeseen circumstances, for example illness.

IT Support

Local IT assistance is available from the Law School IT Team, Caroline Proctor C.L.Proctor@warwick.ac.uk and Sunil Chudasama S.Chudasama@warwick.ac.uk

Further information about the University IT network, together with details of the training courses offered by the University can be found on the Information Technology Services website

All students are expected to word process their assessed essays and dissertations. Assessed work is submitted using the Tabula system.
Data Protection
The Law School holds personal data for all students and works to ensure compliance with the General Data Protection Regulation, with clear and careful procedures around the personal data we hold, why we hold it and how it is used. When corresponding by email students must use their Warwick email account in order that staff can be sure of the identity of the person they are communicating with. Except in the case of an emergency we are also unable to discuss students with other parties outside of the University, without the explicit permission of the student themselves.

Requesting References from Teaching Staff
If you require an academic reference for job, internship or placement application you should contact your Personal Tutor. Please remember to allow them ample time to complete the reference request.

Transcripts
You will be issued with a formal transcript on graduating. If you need to provide a transcript for an application prior to this Law School Reception will be able to issue you with a record of your marks obtained so far. Please note that all marks are provisional until the Final Exam Board meets in November.

Additional Course Costs
Much of the reading material for each module will be available for you to via the module web page or through the Library. In some cases a module teacher may recommend a text book for their module. The Library tends to have most key titles in stock but you may wish to purchase a copy. In some cases you may be able to find a second hand copy to reduce the cost but please make sure that it is the correct edition recommended by your Module Convenor.

Should you choose to print materials that are available online, you will need to pay the associated printing costs. The Law School will provide you with £20 of printing credits early in term one. Printers available for students to use are widely spread across campus. Please see the link for locations and access information.

Personal Tutoring System

Each student is allocated to a personal tutor who is a member of staff in the Law School. Your tutor will be your primary point of contact with whom to discuss your academic progress. You can also talk to your tutor about any other matter of concern to you. Please do not hesitate to contact them if you are experiencing any difficulties. Any information you provide will not impact on your studies and your personal tutor, along with the Law School, will do their best to assist you. Your personal tutor will be able to help you get in touch with other services should you need them. These may include the Students' Union, Counselling Services, the Medical Centre, Nightline, the Careers Advisory Service, and the Chaplaincy.

https://www2.warwick.ac.uk/services/supportservices

Please make arrangements with your personal tutor to meet up in the first couple of weeks of term. It is especially important that you see your personal tutor at the beginning of the year so that they can get to know you.

One of the most common roles of a personal tutor is to provide a reference for their tutees. Whilst you are free to ask any member of staff to provide you with a reference, your personal tutor will always provide one if asked. It helps personal tutors if you keep them in touch with your progress and aspirations and if you wish them to be a referee for you it will be appreciated if you also provide them with a copy of your CV.

Our experience is that the personal tutor system works well. If, however, you do not find your relationship with your tutor to be a helpful one, then please discuss the situation with our Postgraduate Wellbeing Tutor, Mr George Meszaros.

The Postgraduate Wellbeing Tutor can assist with all problems that impact on academic work, especially surrounding issues of essay submission deadlines and examinations, as well as any temporary absences from the university. Students can consult them directly or via their own personal tutor. The Wellbeing Tutor works closely with other student support services where appropriate, and can discuss referrals onto further specialist support services for specific advice on health, accommodation, financial, careers, skills, counselling or mental health issues.

Staff Student Liaison Committees

Staff Student Liaison Committees (SSLCs) constitute an essential part of the postgraduate programme. The committee includes representatives from students elected for each course to represent that student body. Student representatives are able to raise any matters relating to the course of study in this forum. These will be addressed by the School initially via our PG Student Experience Officer Dr Arjumand Kazmi and our Course Directors but also via discussion at the Postgraduate Committee. SSLC members attend all appropriate School committee meetings. For more information visit the SSLC pages of the Student Union website.

You can run for election as a Course Representative in the first few weeks of Term 1 – further details will be provided during Welcome Week.

Questionnaires and Student Feedback

The School actively seeks feedback from students. You will be asked to provide an evaluation for each module you undertake in our short online survey. We take your responses very seriously. Your responses are analysed electronically and provided to module tutors and to course directors. Each year module tutors are asked to report on their student module evaluations. We use the information to help us to develop modules and courses and to ensure the overall quality of our degrees. We would also urge students to participate in University wide surveys of the student learning experience such as the Postgraduate Taught Experience Survey and the International Student Barometer. In this way the University as a whole can learn how to respond effectively to students’ needs.

Appeals and Complaints

The University has procedures for the handling of both appeals and formal complaints for postgraduate students. Any concerns or complaints should initially be raised with either your personal tutor, the Director of PG Student Support and Wellbeing, your Staff Student Liaison Committee (SSLC), your Programme Director or our Student Services Manager, Andrea Humber. Further information on the procedures for both appeals and complaints can be found at https://warwick.ac.uk/services/feedbackcomplaints/students/
PART B – POSTGRADUATE TAUGHT STUDIES IN THE LAW SCHOOL

8. Postgraduate Programmes and Modules

The School offers taught programmes in International Development Law and Human Rights, in International Economic Law, in International Corporate Governance and Financial Regulation, in International Commercial Law and in Advanced Legal Studies. All five courses are taught over one year (or two years for part time students). Further information about each of the taught programmes available this year and the modules available is provided on the postgraduate pages of the Law School website.

Contact hours:

Modules on the IDLHR timetable

These run for 8 weeks from week 2-10 term 1 & 2. Week 6 is a reading week. Each module is timetabled for 3 hours per week. Outside of this time students are expected to take responsibility for their own studies and show initiative in independent learning. All students are expected to prepare fully and actively participate in classes and group activities. IDLHR students are also required to attend the Research & Writing Skills workshops which run on a Wednesday afternoon. 4 Wednesdays will be lectures running from 2pm-4pm and 4 weeks will be a seminar group normally lasting one hour.

Teaching takes place during the working week (Monday-Friday). Teaching normally takes place between 9am-5pm though some modules may be timetabled to run through to the early evening (7 or 8pm)

Modules on the IEL/ICL/ICGFR timetable

Modules on this timetable run for 9 weeks from week 2-10 term 1 & 2. There is no reading week. Each module is timetabled for 3 hours per week. Outside of this time students are expected to engage in self-directed learning and preparation for class discussions. All students are also required to attend the Research & Writing Skills workshops which run on a Wednesday afternoon. 4 Wednesdays will be lectures running from 2pm-4pm and 4 weeks will be a seminar group normally lasting one hour.

ALS Students

Timetable structure will depend from which Course Timetable you are taking modules. Each module is timetabled for 3 hours per week. Outside of this time students are expected to take responsibility for their own studies and show initiative in independent learning. All students are expected to prepare fully and actively participate in classes and group activities. All ALS students are also required to attend the Research & Writing Skills workshops which run on a Wednesday afternoon. 4 weeks will be lectures running from 2pm-4pm and 4 weeks will be a seminar group normally lasting one hour.
External Options

LLM students are permitted to take up to 40 CATS of modules run by external departments (usually from within the Social Sciences faculty). These must be 20 CAT modules at Masters level. Students who wish to take an external option must first seek permission from their Course Director and from the external department.

Course Transfers

You are accepted to study for a particular LLM programme. We therefore do not expect students to transfer between programmes. If you wish to make a request then it must be made in the first week of term one accompanied by a statement making it clear why you wish to do this. A request in the second week will only be considered in exceptional circumstances. Please note that a transfer will require the agreement of both your current Course Director and the Course Director of the LLM to which you wish to transfer. It is then dependent on approval from the Chair of the Board of Graduate Studies. Please note, if you have a Tier 4 visa (CAS) to study in the UK, the University will be required to inform the Home Office – Visa & Immigration of this change to your course.
9. Attendance Requirements and Monitoring

The success of any module depends on your advance preparation and active participation in classes. You should therefore regard these classes as appointments between you, the other members of your class, and the module teacher. We regard attendance at classes as essential and you should expect your module teachers to keep a record of your attendance.

Postgraduate students are registered by the University to study throughout the academic year and are expected to:

1. Be in attendance for the whole of the period from 30 September 2019 until they submit their dissertation in September 2020.
2. Continue with their studies during non-teaching periods (barring public holidays).

Departments are required to monitor student academic engagement and progress using a number of monitoring points. This gives the Department an opportunity to identify those students who are not engaging with their studies and to work with them to address whatever issues they may be facing.

The monitoring process is quite straightforward. For example, the department requires that you attend induction meetings, tutor meetings and seminars. Non-attendance at any of the monitoring points is a signal to the Department that you are not fully engaging with your degree.

Should you have any health problems or other difficulties that prevent you from fulfilling these requirements you must advise your personal tutor and module tutor as soon as possible.

If you miss a Monitoring Point due to ill health then you should complete an online self-certification form. Students are able to self-certify for up to a period of seven days except where the absence is at a significant time of assessment. A doctor’s note or medical certificate will be required for absences of longer than seven days and for examination purposes.

Please be aware that you will be contacted should we become concerned about your missed Monitoring Points.
At the end of each term the Department will report all students who have missed monitoring points to the University Academic Office who will then contact you via e-mail.

A. Where three Monitoring Points are missed we will contact you to investigate whether you are having any problems that are preventing you from fully engaging with your course.

B. After four Monitoring Points are missed we may refer you to the relevant professional within the University welfare system who could help you, such as the Senior Tutor or the Counselling Service, as appropriate.

C. After five Monitoring Points are missed you will be contacted to make you aware that you are at risk of being recommended for termination of your registration at the University.

D. After six Monitoring Points are missed the Department is able to invoke Regulation 36 (see below link to the University Calendar) to begin termination of registration proceedings and your case is handed over to the Academic Office.

(http://www2.warwick.ac.uk/services/gov/calendar/section2/regulations/reg36registrationattendanceprogress/)

If you cannot attend a class or appointment you must email law.attendance@warwick.ac.uk, in advance whenever possible. Please also contact your tutor directly if you are unable to attend any one-to-one meetings with them.

Students must obtain permission from their Director of Studies if they intend for any reason to be away from the University for more than a week (excluding days on which the University is closed).
International Students and Immigration Responsibilities, Tier 4 Visa Holders

International students should be particularly aware of the consequences of missing Monitoring Points: the Academic Office is obliged to report to the Home Office UK Visas and Immigration if any Tier 4 student has been found not to be engaging with and attending their degree course. This will normally lead to the curtailment of their visas.

UK Visas and Immigration (a government agency) issue Tier 4 visas allowing non EEA/EU individuals to study in the UK. These visas are issued with very strict guidelines that impose responsibilities on both the student and the University. Details of your immigration responsibilities, and those of the University, can be found here https://warwick.ac.uk/study/international/immigration/tier4/responsibilities/

Planned absence from a single teaching session should be reported to the Law School, as explained here https://warwick.ac.uk/fac/soc/law/current/absence/ However any longer planned absences should be discussed with the postgraduate support team beforehand postgraduatelaw@warwick.ac.uk in order that we can check they do not present a potential breach of your visa and in order that we can meet the University’s obligations to monitor your attendance.
10. Course Regulations

Advanced Legal Studies - TLAA-M3PJ

Course Requirements
The period of study normally required is twelve months full-time, beginning at the start of the academic year. Special arrangements may be made for part-time students, in which case the required period of study shall be at least twenty-four months.

All candidates must satisfy the Board of Graduate Studies’ requirements for entry. Normally, candidates should have obtained at least upper second class honours in a first degree in law of an approved university, or in a degree containing a substantial legal component.

Scheme of Study
The LLM Advanced Legal Studies degree seeks to enable candidates to construct their own focused study programme, under guidance from the Course Director.

Unlike the other specific LLM programmes offered by the School of Law, there is no required core course, but, instead, the candidate is encouraged to develop a package of study modules which will enable focused development within a specialised field of postgraduate study. The LLM in Advanced Legal Studies also involves submission of a dissertation. Depending on the option taken this would be of
a) 10,000 words (60CATS) and a selection of modules from any LLM taught course to a minimum of 120 CATS
b) 25,000 word (100CATS) and a selection of modules from any LLM taught course offered by the School of Law equivalent to a minimum of 80CATS

Candidates are encouraged to construct their programme of study on the basis of postgraduate modules offered by the School of Law, but, with the approval of the Course Director, it is also possible for modules to be undertaken outside the Law School. A list of such optional modules has been approved, although, in exceptional circumstances, a candidate may be permitted to follow a module outside the approved list.

Year 1

Examination Scheme
Submission Dates
A dissertation written in partial fulfilment of the requirements of an LLM degree shall be submitted to the Law School prior to the end of the academic year in which the candidate first registered for the degree. The submission deadline will be confirmed by the Chair of the Postgraduate Committee at the start of the academic year.

Submission dates for essays or other assessed work in modules for any course of study shall be approved by the School of Law and announced at the beginning of the academic year.

In appropriate cases an extension of such deadlines may be considered. Such extensions shall be granted only for good cause and in accordance with University regulations.

Transfer
A candidate admitted initially to a specific course of study may be permitted to transfer to another course of study.

Such transfers shall be subject to the approval of the Chair of the Postgraduate Committee and of the Chair of the School of Law and notified to the Board of Graduate Studies.
Approval of Modules for Courses of Study
The module(s) for any course of study shall be such postgraduate modules as are approved from time to time by the School of Law. The School of Law may also approve appropriate undergraduate honours modules in Law either for inclusion in a course of study generally, or as part of the specific module of a particular student.

Any exceptional combinations of modules, variations to assessment or course requirements, or any other derogations from these rules shall require the approval of the Senate.

Credit Accumulation and Transfer
LLM degree = 180 credit points
Full module = 20 credit points

11. Examination and Assessment

Assessed Written Work
On Warwick’s LLM programmes, students are required to complete three different types of assessed written work: essays or other written assignments, examinations, and dissertations. Details of the assessment pattern for individual modules are available from the module webpages.

Essays and Other Written Assignments
The prescribed length for assessed essays and other written assignments attracting 20 CATS is 4,000 words.

Please note, word lengths for modules taken outside of the department or for different CATS weightings may differ.

Module teachers will distribute information about the assessment requirements for their modules well in advance of the deadlines for submission.

The prescribed word length for an essay is the maximum permitted. The examiners will not give any marks for words used beyond the permitted length. The maximum length includes text, footnotes, endnotes or a table prepared by students, but excludes references to sources. The maximum length does not include abstract, bibliography or appendices which consist of material such as text of cases, legislation, questionnaire forms, maps, imported statistical or other tables, or photographs. Please see detailed guidance on these issues for dissertations in Appendix C.

Students should clearly indicate the exact total word length on the form for the submission of work including footnotes. A false indication of word length will constitute cheating and will be penalised as such.

Procedures for Submission of Written Work
All assessed work must be submitted electronically via the University’s Tabula System.

Please follow the instructions below:-

1. Visit the link http://tabula.warwick.ac.uk/coursework
2. Select the module you wish to submit work for.
3. Complete the form and submit your work.
4. Once you have submitted, the system will email a confirmation receipt to your Warwick email account. Please keep this email confirmation for future reference.

PLEASE NOTE:

• For guidance on E-Submission visit http://www2.warwick.ac.uk/fac/soc/law/current/esubmission/
• You can resubmit your work at any time up until the deadline set. Any resubmission will replace previous submissions made.
Please note that your submission is final and that everything is in ONE PDF FILE. (Do not attach your cover page, essay and references separately, as you can only submit once). **

- Please ensure that your word count and student I.D. number are clearly indicated on the first page of your work. **
- It will only be possible to upload course work to Tabula in the PDF file format. A guide for how to create PDF files is available here. **
- Your attachment will be automatically prefixed by the system with your student number and course code. **
- Further guides for Tabula can be found in the intranet in the Law ICT support section http://www.warwick.ac.uk/fac/soc/law/current/ict **

Please note that your name should not be on your essay, only your student ID, as all work is marked anonymously. **

Give yourself plenty of time prior to the deadline before submitting your essay/s to Tabula. Late penalties will be applied even if your submission is received just 1 second after the deadline. **

All work must be submitted electronically using the instructions above. HANDWRITTEN PAPERS AND/OR PRINTED DOCUMENTS ARE NOT ACCEPTABLE. **

Examinations **

We have three examination periods on our LLM programmes. **

- Week one Term 2. (Examinations for Term 1 Modules) **
- Week one & two of Term 3. (Examinations for Term 2 Modules) **
- July – Examination re-sit and essay re-submission period **

Examinations will take place in the form of invigilated examinations, in which you will typically have three hours to answer three questions. You will sit them in a room with other students and be monitored by a member of the Law School staff. **

The LLMs in International Economic Law, International Commercial Law and in International Corporate Governance & Financial Regulation each have a core module that students are required to pass in order to qualify for an LLM award. (LA908 IEL, LA9FN ICL & LA9A3 ICGFR) **

Dissertations **

All LLM students are required to complete a supervised dissertation of 10,000 words. You will receive guidance on the process of dissertation writing in the Legal Research and Writing Skills module. In general, it is expected that the dissertation will be on a topic related to your particular degree and approved by the Director of your programme. You are encouraged to begin thinking about dissertation topics as soon as possible. The timetable for developing your thesis is set out in the Key Dates section.

Marking of Assessed Written Work

It is University policy to mark all assessed work (except dissertations) within 20 Working Days of the date of submission. The marking scheme adopted by the Law School is set out in Appendix A. You will be given a mark for your work, together with feedback/comments from the Law School markers. Such feedback is provided for your guidance and we do urge you to consider it carefully. If you wish, you can discuss this feedback with your module tutor but module tutors will not enter into any negotiation with students over marks.

Please note that the marks given to you during the year for your essays and examinations are provisional marks. All provisional marks for essays, examinations and the dissertation are subject to the approval and moderation of the external examiners and the Board of Examiners. They may be changed.

An Interim Board of Examiners is held in June to record marks and to review progress on the taught element of the masters’ programme. Satisfactory performance is required in order to proceed to the dissertation stage.
Late Submission Policy

You will find on your Tabula Profile the submission dates for your coursework. Work submitted after the deadline will be subject to a late penalty, even if it is just a few seconds late. At postgraduate level you would lose 5 percentage points per working day. A day is counted as a 24 hour period from the original published deadline. Penalties only accrue on University working days (Not on weekends and public holidays).

Applying for an Extension

If you are unable to complete written work in accordance with a deadline, you may be able to apply for an extension, following a set procedure.

You must request an extension through Tabula (one for each separate essay in each module) setting out your reasons for requesting an extension. Supporting evidence of your reasons for requesting an extension should also be attached and uploaded. These are only accessible to the wellbeing team (and to IT administration) and treated as confidential. Where an assignment or essay counts for ten percent or less of the module credit it is possible to self-certify for an extension. As with other extension requests you would need to meet circumstances warranting an extension as listed below.

You should always try to apply before the final deadline in question.

Please note that extension requests will not be reviewed during periods of University closure.

Further information on the terms and conditions relating to extension requests are available on line. Please ensure that you check these before submitting any request.

Circumstances warranting an extension

- Extensions are granted only for unforeseen events, such as illness or bereavement. All applications must be supported by documentation of your reasons for requiring an extension, so for illness you must, if possible, obtain a note from a doctor or hospital. Even if you have been ill, you will not automatically be granted an extension; you should therefore plan to finish pieces of work well before the deadline if you can.

- If you have the support of your personal tutor, your chances of being given an extension are increased. Please keep them informed about the background to your difficulties with assessed work and discuss specific difficulties in meeting any deadline as far in advance as possible.

- You will not be given an extension where you have failed to plan your academic work pattern adequately, with the result that the assessed work is late or where work commitments outside the University have impacted on your University work. In particular, extensions will not be granted in cases where late submission is attributable to computing or printing difficulties. You should ensure that you make adequate back-up copies of any work produced in digital format and that you leave sufficient time to submit the final version of your work.

If you are granted an extension you must submit your piece of work via Tabula following the normal procedures. Tabula will reflect the extension granted which will allow you to submit at a later (agreed) date.

Essay feedback

Feedback will normally be provided on coursework within 20 working days of your submission date, with the exception of dissertations. Please note that all feedback will be considered provisional and in some cases the marks may be altered in the process of moderation or on the advice of an external examiner. You are not able to appeal individual marks though you can arrange to meet up with the Module Convenor to discuss your mark and feedback.
Re-Examination

If you fail a module (the pass mark is 50) you will normally be permitted one opportunity to remedy the failure. Please note that the maximum pass mark which may be awarded for a module on re-examination or essay re-submission is 50. The re-sit/re-submission period for modules in terms 1 & 2 will be in July.

Please see the link to the requirements for taught postgraduate awards for further information.

12. Guidance on Mitigating Circumstances

Board of Examiners procedures for recording mitigating circumstances

Sometimes events that are outside your control affect your studies. If these affect your performance in assessments or examinations or prevent you from attending these then you may be able to apply for mitigating circumstances. Full information about this is available on our website: https://warwick.ac.uk/fac/soc/law/current/studentsupport/

In the first instance you discuss your mitigating circumstances with your personal tutor, our Student Support Manager, Andrea Humber, or our Postgraduate Wellbeing Tutor George Meszaros. You can also contact Chris Warner, our Mitigating Circumstances Officer, at law.mitigation@warwick.ac.uk

There are 5 types of situations where you may put in a mitigating circumstances claim

5. Where you were affected by mitigating circumstances outside your control and you submitted your coursework late without requesting an extension in advance; here you are asking the MCP (Mitigating Circumstances Panel) to consider your claim – a possible outcome might be that the MCP decides to waive the penalties that were applied for late submission

6. You were unable to attend a class test because of mitigating circumstances outside your control.

7. You were unable to attend a formal university examination because of mitigating circumstances outside your control.

8. Something occurred during a formal university examination, for example you were taken ill suddenly.

9. You attended an examination, class test or submitted an assignment but at the time you were experiencing mitigating circumstances outside your control which may have affected your performance.

Putting together a general mitigating circumstances claim in the Law School

<thead>
<tr>
<th>Stage 1</th>
<th>We recommend that you discuss any potential mitigation request with your personal tutor or with our Wellbeing Tutor George Meszaros.</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Stage 2</td>
<td>Gather together evidence that will support your claim. Where the circumstances involve something other than medical grounds and your personal tutor has supported you during this time, you may wish to ask your personal tutor to write a statement in support as supportive secondary evidence.</td>
</tr>
If it is likely to take a while to obtain evidence, then make sure that you submit the Tabula mitigation form here as soon as possible to ensure that you meet the deadlines (as set out below).

| Stage 3 | Complete the Tabula mitigation form [if you do not have evidence to submit at stage 3 then submit the MC form, but explain that evidence will follow. This evidence must be received as soon as possible and at the latest within 5 working days of the MCP. This evidence should be emailed to law.mitigation@warwick.ac.uk] |
| Stage 4 | If more evidence is to follow after the submission of the form then please email this to law.mitigation@warwick.ac.uk. Please do not email it to our Wellbeing Tutor or your Personal Tutor. Where the claim or evidence is particularly sensitive please see the guidance below. |

Sensitive information/highly confidential

If the circumstances of the claim are particularly sensitive then you can leave your application and evidence in a sealed envelope at the Law School Reception marked as follows: “Strictly confidential and for the attention of the Chair of the Mitigating Circumstances Panel only”

WARNING

Once marks have been officially released to students it is too late to submit mitigating circumstances for consideration by the Law School. Where a submission is made after the relevant deadline – these cannot be considered by the Board of Examiners but will need to be considered by the University’s Academic Appeals Committee (under regulation 42) – a submission will only be considered where there is an exceptional reason why it was not submitted in time.

For the deadlines for submitting mitigation will be updated online – early in term one:

Extra support and guidance is available from the following sources:

Wellbeing Support Services
Students’ Union Advice Centre

Mitigating Circumstances are unforeseen events or circumstances which have a significant negative impact on your ability to successfully complete, or study effectively in preparation for, summative assessment tasks such as essays, written or oral examinations, assessed presentations or assessed laboratory work. If you want any such events or circumstances to be considered by the relevant Board of Examiners you are required to communicate formally (in writing) with the Department about them. Please note that while it is acknowledged that cultural attitudes to the disclosure of personal information may vary, students are expected to fully disclose all matters they wish to have taken into consideration by the Board of Examiners. If you are unsure whether something that has happened to you, or to someone close to you, is eligible to be considered as a Mitigating Circumstance, it is likely to be eligible if it was unforeseeable or beyond your control and if it also had a significant impact on your ability to prepare for or complete the assessment in question. If you are in any doubt about whether something that has happened to you or someone close to you is eligible for consideration then you should consult your Personal Tutor or Wellbeing Support Services or one of the advisers at the Students’ Union Advice Centre. Even if the event or circumstance is not eligible for consideration in this way it may nevertheless be something for which you should seek support and the tables below indicate, in their final column, where to go to access that support.
Mitigating Circumstances can never result in the changing of marks for individual modules or assessments, however, they may affect your overall degree classification. For further information on the possible effects of your Mitigating Circumstances claim being accepted, see Mitigating Circumstances Process and Procedures online at: https://warwick.ac.uk/quality/categories/examinations/policies/u_mitigatingcircumstances/.

The table at Appendices E provides more detailed guidance on, and examples of, types of circumstance which are normally considered eligible. If you think you do have an eligible Mitigating Circumstance you should submit your request through your personal Tabula page as soon as possible after the circumstance arises along with appropriate supporting documentation of the sort outlined in Appendix E. The University recognises that it may be difficult to obtain supporting documentation in a timely fashion, however, you should still register the circumstance pending supply of supporting documentation. If you need assistance with the process please refer to the Law School website https://warwick.ac.uk/fac/soc/law/current/studentsupport/ or contact postgraduatelaw@warwick.ac.uk

Further guidance about declaring mitigating circumstances through Tabula can be found here https://warwick.ac.uk/services/its/servicessupport/web/tabula/manual/cm2/mit-circs/declare/

The University is aware that in some cultures it is considered shameful or embarrassing to disclose the details of these kinds of circumstances to those outside one’s family. This is not the case in the prevailing UK culture and you should be aware that the department and University are fully supportive of students in difficult circumstances and want to assist if at all possible. If you feel inhibited from talking to a tutor or other member of staff in the first instance, you may also consider talking to a member of your SSLC, the Student’s Union, the Faculty Senior Tutor or a member of staff in Student Support for initial, informal advice.

Please note that it is your responsibility to report mitigating circumstances at the earliest possible opportunity and to submit by the deadlines the Law School have set. Mitigating evidence is reviewed in confidence by the Mitigating Circumstances Panel (MCP) prior to the Interim Exam Board in June and the Final Exam Board in November. The MCP will make recommendations to the Board of examiners depending on the type and severity of the mitigating circumstances. You will be informed by email once mitigation deadlines are confirmed and the information will be available on the Law School student web pages.

13. Cheating and Plagiarism

What is the difference between Bad Academic Practice and Cheating?
The difference between Bad Academic Practice and Cheating is a matter of fact and degree. The person looking at your work makes a decision based on the quality and the quantity of the work reproduced without proper acknowledgment. There is no formal line between the two.

Investigation of Bad Academic Practice & Cheating
Every piece of work you submit goes through an electronic detection system (Turnitin) as well as being checked manually by the person marking. A finding of Bad Academic Practice results in the re-marking of your work. Any passages which have not been correctly attributed are discarded for the final mark. A finding of plagiarism or cheating will result in a mark of 0 and you may be asked to withdraw from your degree. Beyond university, professional bodies may investigate your academic record which may affect your chances of getting a job. If you believe that you have been incorrectly been found guilty of cheating, there is an opportunity to appeal to the University.

Guidance to Avoid Cheating and Bad Academic Practice
In an effort to prevent such incidents we have devised the following guidance for your assistance. It is imperative that you read, understand and comply with the following notes of advice:

The General Rule
Any piece of work submitted by a student must be that student’s own work. For this reason, all forms of cheating are forbidden.

‘Cheating’ is defined in the University Regulations as “an attempt to benefit oneself or another, by deceit or fraud”. This includes “deliberately reproducing one’s own work or the work of another person or persons without proper acknowledgement” contrary to University Regulation 11B. (Extract from Regulation 11 which can be found at http://www2.warwick.ac.uk/services/gov/calendar/section2/regulations/cheating).

Additionally, in the School of Law, cheating in assessments occurs where a student takes passages, ideas or structures from another work or author without proper attribution (on which, see 4.2 below). The instructions of the School are supplementary to those contained in University Regulations.

Proper Attribution
What follows is an introduction, but more details of the OSCOLA and Harvard (author/date) systems are available on many websites. You are strongly advised to consider the following:

Where passages, ideas or structures are taken from another author, the student assessment must indicate unequivocally the source of the material in question according to the following conventions:

(a) Where material is reproduced from another source (such as a book, article, judgment or statute), the relevant passage must be enclosed within quotation marks (“…”) and accompanied by proper citation.

Example

In seeking to understand the role of victims in crime, criminologists have commonly used victim surveys. Whilst these provide an insight into victims and crime, surveys are subject to limitations. Thus, for example, victims may “exaggerate incidents or fail to remember them at all” (H. Croall, Crime and Society in Britain, (1998) Longman, at p.89). Surveys may also be misrepresentative...

(b) An alternative method of presentation is to indent the relevant passage so as to distinguish it from the rest of the text of the assessment. Where material from another source is indented in this way, it must also be enclosed within quotation marks (“…”) and accompanied by proper citation.

Example

Whilst the spread of CCTV surveillance might help dissuade prospective criminals from committing criminal acts, video evidence derived in this way may not be all good news in court cases:

“Video evidence is very persuasive and possessed of a high degree of reliability. It is not entirely reliable however. ‘Seeing is believing’ and ‘the camera never lies’ are brocards which cannot be completely and invariably true. There is thus a risk of over-persuasion of the jury.” (D. Elliot, “Video Tape Evidence: The Risk of Over-Persuasion” (1998) Criminal Law Review, 158-174, at p. 159).

This risk of over-persuasion may occur in several different ways...

Citation
There are two aspects to acknowledgement of sources. You must always list the works (and people) you consulted in doing the research for the essay in a general bibliography at its end; but you must also acknowledge the sources for specific points as your essay goes along. It is important that your citation refers to the precise page(s) of the book or article; it is not sufficient to merely cite the book or article without reference to the page(s) relied upon. Be aware of the citation techniques used in the books and articles, which you are reading in connection with your modules. These techniques will provide useful guides for your own written work.

Once you have decided that a given statement or passage should be attributed to a source or group of sources, you can do so in a variety of different ways. The most common is to provide a footnote number at the appropriate point in your text, leading the reader to a note at the foot of the page or at the end of the whole essay. Other systems include putting the source in brackets following the item, putting it in the margin, incorporating it in the text itself - ("Street points out (Freedom, The Individual and the Law, p.22) that...") - or doing anything else that does the job without interrupting the flow of the text too drastically.

When citing a book, you should include:

1. the author’s name (or authors’ names)
2. title of the work
3. edition
4. year of publication
5. page or pages from which the information is drawn.

When citing a journal article, give the following:

1. author’s name
2. title of the article
3. year of publication
4. volume number
5. name of periodical
6. page number on which the article begins
7. page or pages from which the information is drawn.

When citing a case report, you should give:

(a) its full title (the parties’ names should be underlined)
(b) the year of its publication
(c) the volume number (if there is one)
(d) the series of reports which you consulted
(e) where appropriate, the specific page and judge whose view you are referring to.

If you are citing a source quoted in another source, without having yourself gone to the original, you should make this clear.

Footnoting

There are a variety of systems for cutting down on the amount of information which you need to supply in a given footnote. If you have already provided all the details of a source in a previous note, you can refer back to it. For example, where you have already cited a book by Fawcett at footnote 3 in your essay, you can refer to it again as: “Fawcett (note 3 supra)”. Or you can use op. cit. (meaning “in the work already referred to”). If the work in question is cited in the note immediately preceding, you use ibid (meaning “the same work”).

Footnotes also supply a vehicle for the inclusion of extra material which, although relevant to your theme and of likely interest to the reader, would interfere with the flow of your argument if included in the main text. You do not have to use such textual footnotes in your essays, but they are a well-established part of the scholarly scene and you may wish to make use of them accordingly.

Author-Date System

The Author-Date system is an alternative and acceptable system for citation. Instead of footnoting the citation, the reference is placed within the text itself thus:

Harvey (1996: 4), for example, suggests that ‘maps are typically totalising usually two-dimensional Cartesian, and very un-dialectical devices with which it is possible to propound any mixture of extraordinary insights and monstrous lies’ (See also Santos 1995: 441).

The full reference is then provided in the Bibliography at the back of the assessment as:

Paraphrasing
Your essay must be in your own words. It may sometimes be appropriate to reproduce a useful quotation in order to emphasise a point. You should only make selective use of direct quotations, which must be fully and properly attributed. An essay which consists of excessive use of direct quotations, e.g. a series of quoted paragraphs with linking sentences, is not work of an acceptable degree standard. If the quotes are fully and properly attributed, the essay will not be an example of plagiarism. However, it will not be an essay in your own words and will likely receive a low mark because you have not demonstrated that you can present the arguments yourself.

In writing an essay, you will generally refer to a variety of primary and secondary sources, and may legitimately paraphrase the ideas contained in these sources. These sources must not be presented as your own work; rather, you must show that you have understood and assimilated the information. All sources must be fully referenced when you rely upon them for your ideas.

There are various sorts of paraphrasing. The first may be described as syntactical paraphrasing, e.g. where the sentence is changed from the present to the past tense, or some synonyms are used, or where the word order may be changed. Even if this is attributed, and therefore not plagiarism, this is not work of acceptable degree standard and will receive a low mark. This form of paraphrasing does not display any qualitative understanding or critical evaluation on your part because it is not using your own words.

The second form of paraphrasing distils the essence of an argument. Much of what you do in assessments consists of this form of work. Here, after reading a number of sources, you summarise in your own words, the key elements of an idea or argument. This goes beyond superficial changes in style or grammar, and requires a degree of internal processing of the concepts involved. In contrast with syntactical paraphrasing, where someone untrained in the area of study could recognise the similarity between the two paragraphs, here a degree of specialist expertise would be necessary in order to link the paraphrase with its source. It must be stressed that even where you are properly paraphrasing, as in the second example, full and proper citations must be supplied. The source of all ideas, which are not your own, must be referenced.

The structure and argument must be your own work. Whether an essay will be considered your own work may depend on the degree and extent of paraphrasing, and the nature of the question set. For example, where instead of using direct quotations, an essay consists mainly of paraphrased references to various authors – according to Dicey, X is the rule on constitutional conventions, whereas according to Jennings it is Y – this may be poor quality work if there is not sufficient original contribution by the student. However, if the question asks you to make a critical evaluation of various perspectives on a particular issue, then a greater degree of paraphrasing may be permissible, provided this is used in support of your own argument about the sources referred to.

Using the Internet

If you draw upon material obtained via the Internet you must observe the following protocols:

(a) Give a full citation to the source and site consulted in your assessment.
(b) Keep an electronic copy of the material or webpage on file. You may be asked to produce this if there is an investigation into your work. It is not sufficient to keep merely a record of the universal resource locator (URL) as this may change. You should save a copy of the webpage.

Citation of material on the web should in principle be in the same form as that for any other references. However, in addition it is essential to include the full universal resource locator (URL) and, in the case of websites which are likely to change, the date on which the student accessed the material. Thus:

Example

Where there is no specific author indicated on the website, then the reference should commence with the website name.

Example

Reliance on Material not in the University Library

Should you decide to rely upon an article or book which is not held in the University Library, you must retain the original or a photocopy of the article or relevant section of the book relied on. You may be asked to produce this if there is an investigation into your work. Failure to cite such sources fully or to provide copies of the material when requested may be regarded as evidence of plagiarism.

Reliance on Previously Prepared Work
Assignments are set for particular modules, therefore work previously prepared in any context is not acceptable even if on the same subject matter.

Collusion

‘Collusion’ is also prohibited under School of Law rules. ‘Collusion’ occurs where two or more people combine to produce something which is then passed off or submitted as a piece of individual work. Students may discuss their essay topics with one another and assist each other in identifying sources. However, each student must individually read and make notes from all sources used in their assessments, and you must prepare the assignment (including compiling footnotes and the bibliography) on your own. Any close similarities between assessments presented by two or more students are likely to result in an investigation for collusion.

Bibliography

At the end of your essay, you must supply a complete appropriated presented bibliography of all works to which you have referred in writing your essay. There are at least three categories of work which should be included: sources which you have directly quoted from in your essay, sources which you have used to support a particular fact or argument even if you have not quoted from them directly (and which should also be footnoted), and sources which you have drawn on for background information and ideas, but which you may not have used to support directly any point in your essay. Failure to refer to all sources upon which you have relied in any way in writing your essay is to mislead the examiner.

Frequently Asked Questions

Q. The question has asked me for my opinion, but I feel that I do not know enough about the subject to have any firm opinions of my own. What should I do to avoid presenting opinions I have read in articles as my own?

A. A question of this nature is not asking you to develop some ground-breaking legal theory or idea (although this is not to discourage you from so doing). The question is designed to ensure that you are familiar with and understand the contemporary debate on a given legal controversy. It would be appropriate here to refer to opinions in books and journals, and to draw on a range of opinions, showing how these opinions were formed and reformed. This would then enable you to make a relative judgement, based on the strengths and weaknesses of the actual opinions to which you have referred. What is crucial is that you present these opinions in your own words – reflecting on the most important components of existing arguments will help in the process of coming to some critical evaluation of your own.

Q. Can I ask someone else to proof-read my essay before submitting it?
A. Yes, but you must make sure that this person limits him or herself to suggesting only editorial changes or improvements to your English and not to the substance of your essay. It is also advisable that you use as a proof-reader someone who is not taking the module to which the essay relates, so as to avoid any suspicion of collusion.

15. Postgraduate Students

Warwick Doctoral College
The Doctoral College at Warwick is responsible for enhancing postgraduate student experience and upholding the high standards of graduate educational provision across the University. The Doctoral College provides support to students to ensure timely progress, academic success and appropriate preparation for careers, and is available as a source of information and support beyond students’ departments.
To meet the needs of the University’s postgraduate students, the Doctoral College:

Duties and Responsibilities of the Supervisors

Supervisors should satisfy themselves that the project which the student wishes to undertake is appropriate for an LLM dissertation and can reasonably be undertaken with the resources available and in the required timescale, and that they are confident, as far as is possible, that the student has the capacity to undertake the project successfully.

Supervisors are expected:

- To give guidance about the identification of a suitable research topic, about the nature of research and the standard expected, about the planning and writing of the dissertation, about relevant literature and sources, and to encourage students to keep aware of all relevant developments within the subject.

- To draw the attention of students to all relevant University and departmental regulations and monitoring arrangements.

- To give advice on the necessary completion dates of successive stages of the work, agreeing objectives for each stage so that the dissertation may be submitted within the scheduled time.

- To provide advice on writing up the work during the Summer Term.

- To read through a draft of the dissertation if submitted at the end of the Summer Term and provide detailed comments. Meeting to discuss draft with student in the first two weeks of July. Supervisors are not required to read or comment upon any drafts submitted after the end of the Summer Term.

- To maintain contact with students through supervisory meetings and other types of structured communication as appropriate.

- To inform students should they plan to be away from the University for more than one week prior to the end of the Summer Term to allow students to plan accordingly.

- To respect the contribution and intellectual property rights of the student in external output of any form emanating from the research.

- To inform students if either their progress or the standard of their work is unsatisfactory, and arrange a plan of supportive action.

- To report regularly to the Directors of the LLM programmes on each student’s progress.

- To advise students on matters of confidentiality or ethical considerations relating to particular techniques, sources or results.

Responsibilities of LLM Students
LLM candidates completing dissertations are expected:

- To agree an LLM dissertation topic with their dissertation supervisor.
- To discuss with the supervisor the type of guidance and comment they find most helpful, and to agree a schedule of meetings.
- To seek advice from their supervisor in an active manner recognising that it is the student’s responsibility to have their own topics to raise with the supervisor.
- To maintain the progress of the work in accordance with the stages agreed with the supervisor. This would include in particular, the provision of well-presented written work within the agreed timescales for comment and discussion before proceeding to the next stage.
- To take note of the guidance and feedback on their work provided by their supervisor and to recognise that the supervisor’s role is to offer advice on the academic content of the work and its general presentation and not to provide detailed correction of written English.
- To be familiar with and comply with the regulations and departmental guidelines relating to their degree and the monitoring of progress.
- To respect the contribution and intellectual property rights of the supervisor in external output of any form emanating from the research.
- To inform their supervisor in good time where possible, should they plan to be away from the University for more than one week prior to the end of the Summer Term. Please note that any absence for more than a week requires prior approval of the Programme Director.
- To take the initiative in raising problems or difficulties with the supervisor(s) in the first instance, however elementary they may seem, including any matters which may require a suspension of registration or will cause a delay in the expected completion date of the work.
- To accept a commitment to complete their project and submit their dissertation in accordance with the Law School’s Dissertation submission date.
- To decide when to submit the dissertation taking due account of the opinion of the supervisor on the draft of the dissertation. It should be clearly understood that any opinion expressed by the supervisor is necessarily only advisory and that the supervisor’s agreement to submission of the dissertation is not a guarantee of success.

Although practices vary between supervisors, students should normally expect to meet with their supervisor once before submitting their proposal and two to three times between submitting the proposal and the end of term 3. Students are expected to remain in residence at the University until submitting their dissertation in September unless permission has been granted by the Course Director.

- Principles
  1. The University has a single set of rules for the award of taught postgraduate qualifications which are not otherwise constrained by accreditation requirements.
  2. The classification system for the award of merit and distinction is based on averaging.
  3. These arrangements are consistent with the QAA Framework for Higher Education Qualifications and take account of module and course learning outcomes.
  4. The system is designed to be transparent, clear and comprehensible for students and staff.
  5. In arriving at decisions for an award, a fail mark for a module may not be condoned and a module may not be passed by compensation.

(f) For students who first registered prior to the academic year 2017-18
The award of Master will normally be made on successful completion of 150 credits at level 7, providing that a mark of at least 40 is obtained in the failed module(s) and all core modules are passed. Where departments require students to attain 180 credits at level 7 for the award of Master this must be clearly specified in information supplied to students.

(f) For students who first registered in or after the academic year 2017-18
The award of Master will normally be made on successful completion of 150 credits at level 7, providing that a mark of at least 40 is obtained in the failed module(s) and all core modules are passed. Where departments require students to attain higher volume of credit at level 7 for the award of Master this must be clearly specified in information supplied to students.

a. The award of Postgraduate Diploma will normally be made on successful completion of 90 credits at level 7, providing that a mark of at least 40 is obtained in the failed module(s) AND all core modules are passed. Where departments require students to attain 120 credits at level 7 for the award of Postgraduate Diploma this must be clearly specified in information supplied to students.

b. It is the responsibility of examination boards to act in accordance with these rules. Where professional, statutory or regulatory bodies specify requirements for accreditation which are inconsistent with these rules, departments must propose alternative arrangements which must be approved by Academic Quality and Standards Committee. No additional conventions may be specified by departments.

c. Where departments wish to maintain flexibility of award as outlined in (f) and (g) above, they may indicate modules, which students must take, but where the achievement of a pass mark of 50 is not critical for progression (within the context of paragraph (f) above). Any such arrangements must be clearly specified in information supplied to students and these ‘required’ modules listed.

- Marking
  a. All marks should be given on a 0-100 scale.
  b. The minimum pass mark for all postgraduate modules is 50.
  c. Departments must specify in module proposals and in information supplied to students whether students must pass all elements of the assessment on a module in order to be awarded a pass mark. In the event that departments do not do so, students will be awarded a pass in the module if they attain an average mark, weighted according to the percentage of the individual elements of the assessment, which is not lower than 50.

- Re-examination
  a. Students on taught postgraduate degrees should normally be allowed one opportunity to remedy failure in initial assessment in modules that equate with no more than one half of the total credits awarded in the taught element of the course. Only one re-examination will be permitted for each module except as set out in (g) below.
  b. Students should normally be allowed one opportunity to remedy failure in their dissertation/project module. Students obtaining a mark of 30 or less in the dissertation/project carrying a credit weighting of more than 60 credits will only be permitted to submit a re-worked submission for examination against different learning outcomes, the achievement of which would enable them to be considered for the award of a Postgraduate Diploma, except as set out in (g) below.
  c. Where the failure on an initial assessment in a taught module, dissertation or similar piece of independent project work is the result of penalties for late submission, the student should normally not be allowed to revise or resubmit the same assessment in order to remedy that failure, but should be required to undertake a new assessment, dissertation or project. Where it is impracticable for the department to allow the student to undertake a new assessment, dissertation or project that has failed due to penalties for late submission, the initial failure should be allowed to stand (and the matter referred to the Board of Examiners for their consideration of all the circumstances relevant to the case).
  d. Where a failure results from a finding of cheating under University regulations, it should be for the Head of the department (or his or her authorised deputy), the University Investigating Committee or the Board of Examiners to determine whether the student should be allowed to remedy that failure.
  e. Where a student has failed to reach the minimum pass mark for a module which contains more than one element of assessment, the student shall normally be required to be re-examined only in the element(s) of the assessment which has (have) not met the minimum pass mark, noting that the appropriate method of reassessment should be determined by the Board of Examiners.
  f. The maximum pass mark which may be awarded for a module on re-examination is 50, irrespective of the mark(s) which have been given for other elements of the assessment for that module, except as set out in (g) below. Departments are however required to keep a record of the uncapped mark, although it would not appear on the student’s transcript.
  g. Where there is evidence of serious medical or personal problems disclosed to, and discussed by, the relevant departmental Special Cases Committee, that committee may make recommendations to the relevant Examination Board as to the extent to which these special circumstances should be taken into account in offering to the student an opportunity to be examined as a first attempt or offered a further opportunity for re-examination. Any discretionery consideration should be clearly minuted by Examination Boards. The Examination Board should not amend a module mark or the mark for any element of assessment as a result of special circumstances being taken into account except that where there are a number of elements to the assessment the Examination Board may recalculate a module mark based on the elements of the assessment which have attained a pass mark and which were not affected by the special circumstances.

- Progression
i. Where students are not initially enrolled for a full Master’s award, they may normally only progress to the next stage of a course when they have acquired the required minimum number of credits specified in the tabulated summary at Appendix A, including passing all modules designated as core to ensure that the stated course learning outcomes have been met. If a department requires that students must also obtain a specified average mark across some or all modules before progressing from a postgraduate certificate to a postgraduate diploma, or from a postgraduate diploma to the Master’s, this must be clearly specified in information provided to students.

ii. Course proposals and documentation provided to students must, therefore, explicitly identify the core modules on any course for which credit must be achieved in order to progress.

iii. Where any additional modules are required to be passed (in addition to the total minimum credit volume to be passed as specified in Appendix A) to meet the learning outcomes for an award or for progression to the next stage of a course, this must be indicated clearly in the course approval and specification and be made clear in documentation supplied to students.

- Awards and classification

(a) For students who first registered prior to the academic year 2017-18
Students are eligible for the awards shown in Appendix A if they obtain the minimum number of credits at the appropriate level(s) and all core modules are passed. Where departments require students to attain 180 credits at level 7 for the award of Master this must be clearly specified in information supplied to students.

(a) For students who first registered in or after the academic year 2017-18
Students are eligible for the awards shown in Appendix A if they obtain the minimum number of credits at the appropriate level(s) and all core modules are passed. Where departments require students to attain a higher volume of credit at level 7 for the award of Master this must be clearly specified in information supplied to students.

a. Where departments require students to attain 120 credits at level 7 for the award of Postgraduate Diploma this must be clearly specified in information supplied to students.

b. Subject to the provisions of (d) below the award of Master, Postgraduate Diploma, Postgraduate Certificate or Postgraduate Award should be with merit if a student attains an Award Average (weighted according to the credit rating of the modules comprised within the award) of between 60.0 and 69.9 inclusive and with distinction if a student attains an Award Average of 70.0 or above. Where departments specify that a student must attain a mark on a particular module or modules of 60.0 or above for an award with merit or 70.0 or above for an award with distinction this must be specified in information provided to students.

c. Irrespective of the award average attained by a student and subject to the provisions of (e) below no student may receive an award with merit or distinction if the student has not received the minimum pass mark for any module.

d. Where there is evidence of serious medical or personal problems disclosed to and discussed by the relevant departmental Special Cases Committee that committee may make recommendations to the relevant Examination Board as to the extent to which these special circumstances should be taken into account. Any discretionary consideration should be clearly minuted by Examination Boards.
