

Rosa Luxemburg and International Law

Workshop Programme

15 September 2022 | Zoom link

9.45-10 Introduction

10.00-11.15 Imperialism and Primitive Accumulation

Chaired by Christine Schwöbel-Patel, Warwick Law School

- Kanad Bakchi (Max Plank Institute International and Comparative Law, Heidelberg), Central Banking as 'Primitive Accumulation': International Law and the Transformation of Monetary Policy
- Santosh Anand (South Asian University, New Delhi), Foreclosed Temporalities: International Criminal Law, Imperialism and the Legacy of Rosa Luxemburg
- Jackson Reese Faust (Howard University), Luxemburg, Accumulation and Dispossession: Republican Lawscapes toward Global Spatial Justice
- Michele Tedeschini (Harvard Institute for Global Law and Policy), Lessons from Luxemburg: The emptiness of international law and the dialectic of capital accumulatio

11.30-12.30 Anti-Militarism

Chaired by Christine Schwöbel-Patel, Warwick Law School

- Marnie Lloyd (Victoria University of Wellington, Te Herenga Waka), "A few not too troublesome restrictions", Restraints on Violence, Solidarity and International Law
- Chloe Truong-Jones (New York University), Jurisdictional Accumulation and the uS Police Power
- Antal Attila (Eötvös Loránd University) The New Form of Capitalist Militarism: The Permanent State of Exception. The Challenges of Anti-War Theory and Activism

13.30-14.45 Self-determination

Chaired by Serena Natile, Warwick Law School

- Marcel Garbos (Harvard, History), A Laboratory for Internationalism: Time, territory, and post-imperial transformation in Rosa Luxemburg's writings on autonomy and self-determination, 1895-1919
- Nathalia Penha Cardoso de França (Mackenzie Presbyterian University), Rosa Luxemburg and self-determination: a point of view of the Brazilian democratic decline process
- Paola Zichi (QMUL, History), Rosa Luxemburg and Self-Determination in Feminist Approaches to International Law
- Eric Loefflad (KLS), Conquest After Conquest: Rosa Luxemburg, Partitioned Poland, and the Fetish of Title by Subjugation

14:45-15.45 Reparations

Chaired by Serena Natile, Warwick Law School

- Mia Swart (Edge Hill University), 'Pushed into the burning desert': Rosa Luxemburg's analysis of imperialism through the lens of reparations
- Serena Natile (Warwick), The reparative potential of a grassroots-inspired transnational social security law: lessons from Rosa
- Christine Schwöbel-Patel (Warwick), Radical mootings: teaching the Luxemburgian trial of rapture

16:00 Reflections and Plans

16.30 Public Lecture: Dana Mills – Socialism or Barbarism: 100 years on

Register on Eventbrite