INTERNATIONAL ECONOMIC LAW CORE MODULE:
INTRODUCTION & INFORMATION

INTERNATIONAL ECONOMIC LAW
CORE MODULE (LA 908)
Term 1

Professor Celine Tan, School of Law, University of Warwick
Dr Jeremmy Okonjo, School of Law, University of Warwick
Dr Marina Veličković, School of Law, University of Warwick

Your Module Lecturers

Professor Celine Tan
Professor of International Economic Law, Warwick Law School

Dr Jeremmy Okonjo
Associate Professor, Warwick Law School

Dr Marina Veličković
Assistant Professor, Warwick Law School

Module Introduction

- This module is designed to offer a critical overview of what can be described as the legal and regulatory foundations of the contemporary global economy.
- The module will introduce and examine aspects of international economic law within its longer imperial history and its contemporary evolving context of economic, political, social and cultural globalization.
- It will provide an overview of the legal and other regulatory foundations of the global economy and critically consider the operations of the main global institutions and frameworks governing the global economy.
- This module aims to provide the foundation and context for the substantive topics covered in other options in the programme.
- The first part of this module introduces and evaluates the main architecture of international economic law while the second part of the module will examine key institutions/ areas of international economic law in greater depth.

Module Organisation

- The module will be taught over nine weeks in Term 1.
- The module will be taught on campus over a three-hour seminar.
- Our classes will start from Week 1 and you will engage with learning through the course Moodle platform which can be accessed via our course Moodle (e-learning platform).

Module Readings

- Readings for the module are listed as ‘essential’ and ‘recommended’.
- Readings for the module can be found using the Reading List link on the Moodle page. All essential and recommended readings are available electronically through the Warwick Library.
- You will find weekly learning guides on Moodle in advance of each week with the reading list, questions for discussion and any additional preparatory activities outlined.
- Weekly seminars will take place on the basis that the essential readings have been studied in advance and the questions and activities for the week are prepared for in advance.
- Comments and suggestions for readings/ new areas of exploration and discussion during the module are always welcome. Please contact us with your ideas.

Outline of Topics & Timetable

Week:	Topic:	Lecturer:
Week 1	International Economic Law as a Field of Study	Celine Tan
Week 2	Globalization, Imperial Legacies and International Economic Law	Celine Tan
Week 3	International Organisations and Institutions for Global Economic Governance	Celine Tan
Week 4	Soft Law and Non-Legal Frameworks	Celine Tan
Week 5	Shifting Boundaries of International Economic Law	Celine Tan
Week 6	Reading Week (No Class)	No class
Week 7	The Multilateral Trade Regime	Jeremmy Okonjo
Week 8	International Investment Law	Jeremmy Okonjo
Week 9	Law and Governance of International Finance	Celine Tan
Week 10	International Economic Law and Capitalism	Marina Veličković

Module Assessment

The module will have two assessment components:

1. Assessment 1: Reflective journal: A reflective journal is a critical and analytical account of your progress, understanding and reflections through your learning journey on this course. Your journal should consist of four entries of 250 words each with a maximum total of 1,200 words. This assessment will constitute 30% of your total marks for the course. The journal should be written at different points during the first term and submitted as a whole by January 2027.

2. Assessment 2: Open-book examination: This is an in-person, two-hour exam in the first week of Term 2 (January 2027). Details will be supplied in due course. This part of the assessment will constitute 70% of your total marks for the module.

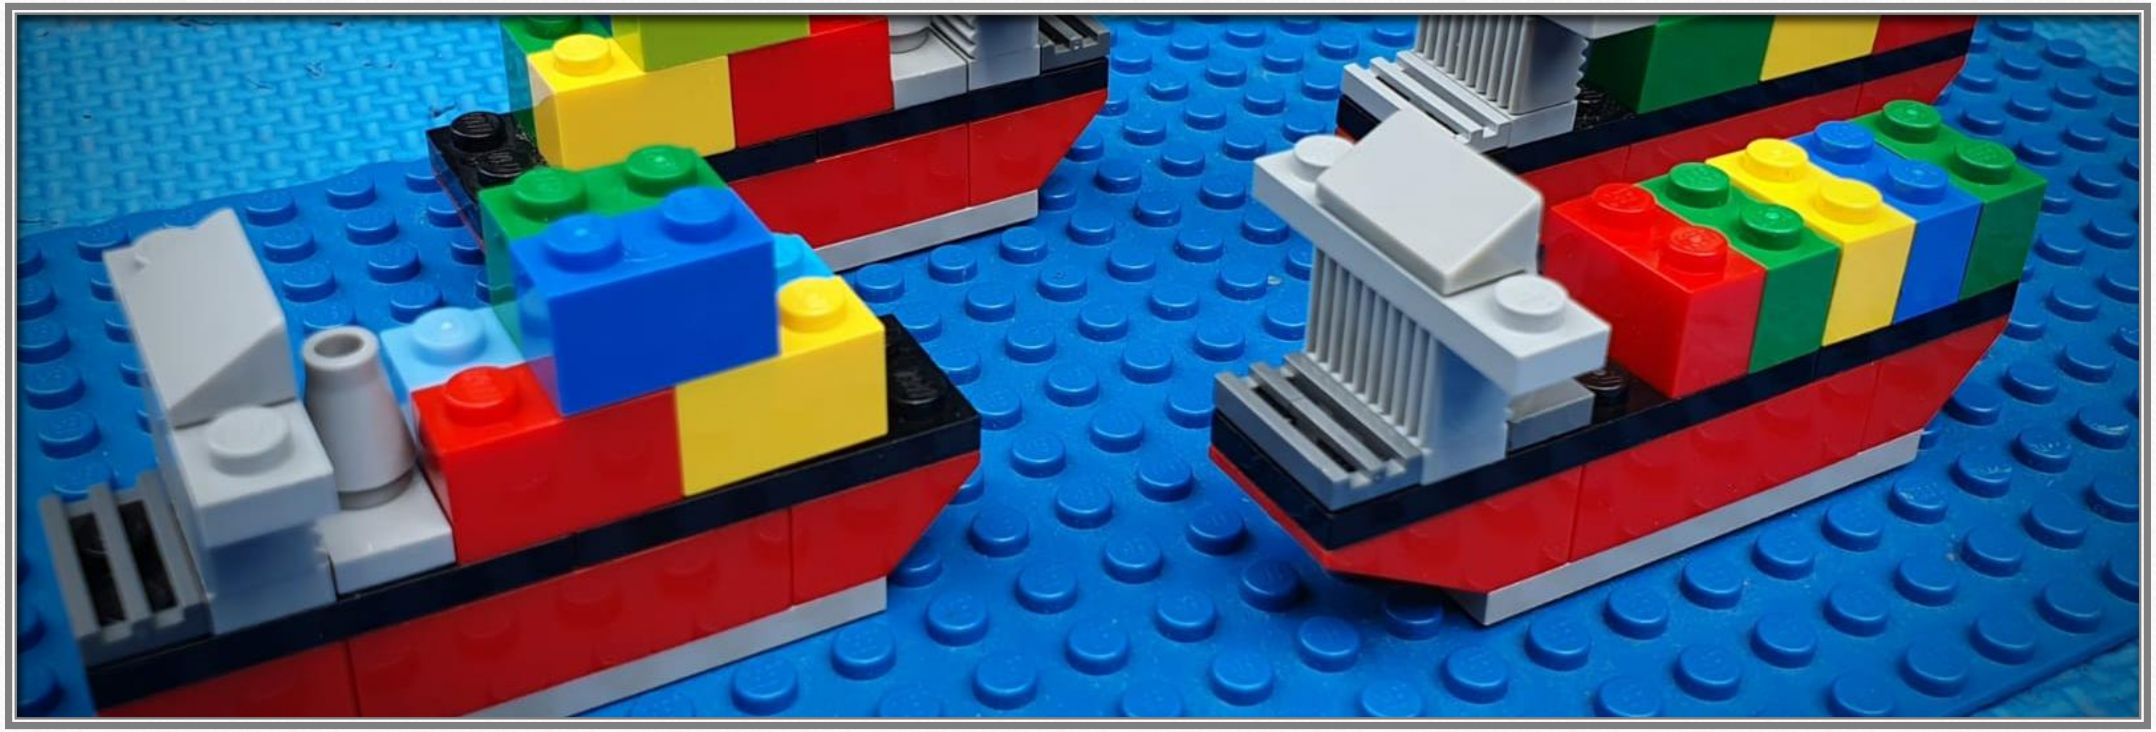
   In open book exam means that you will have access to materials and books with you during the exam. However, you will not have time to read the materials in any detail and they should only serve as references. You will not find the answer in any of the materials and you must allow sufficient time to write substantive answers.



Questions?

Email: celine.tan@warwick.ac.uk We look forward to welcoming to Warwick Law School soon!