

Studentship for Globalisation & Development 12/13

Get invaluable work experience with an international development organisation

PaIS is collaborating with BasicNeeds to support a competitive studentship for our MA in Globalisation and Development students.

How will the student benefit?

- 3-5 weeks of work experience after the dissertation's submission, working on global issues of development and mental health. Duration to be negotiated between BasicNeeds and the student.
- A selection of innovative topics to choose from reflecting real-life development issues
- Access to the BasicNeeds' library and primary data at their Leamington Spa office
- A certificate from BasicNeeds/PAIS at the end of your studentship

What is the studentship programme?

The studentship will be split into two parts over the summer term and vacation. The chosen student will produce a rigorous dissertation on one of the titles agreed between PAIS and BasicNeeds. After submitting the dissertation the student will work with BasicNeeds to translate his/her research findings into reports, pamphlets, flyers and blogs etc that BasicNeeds will use to further their development work.

What dissertation titles can you choose from?

- The resources for global mental health are modest: Critically assess strategies for campaigning effectively for unfashionable causes
- Double oppression: Situation of women affected with mental illness; a country case study
- Approaches to capacity building in developing countries: The case of mental health
- Task shifting: The way in which non-specialist members of the community have to take up specialist roles – the case of mental health care
