

They're international leaders in Humanities and Social Sciences.

What would you like to achieve?

Susan Broomhall
Professor of History

Philip Mead
Professor of Australian Literature

Professor Terri-ann White
Director of UWA Publishing

Diane Stone - Professor in Politics and International Relations

Over the decades, The University of Western Australia's Faculty of Arts has produced some of the highest achieving graduates in the nation, including Prime Ministers, Premiers, writers and many business and community leaders.

In 2012, in recognition of their outstanding research, Professor Susan Broomhall, Professor Philip Mead and Professor Terri-ann White were elected Fellows of the Australian Academy of the Humanities, and Professor Diane Stone was elected a Fellow of the Australian Academy of Social Sciences.

We are proud that our Faculty of Arts boasts dedicated teachers and renowned scholars and researchers who are internationally recognised experts in their disciplines.

If you are passionate about history, literature or politics and would like to study or work alongside our award-winning leaders in the arts, join us. Visit arts.uwa.edu.au

THE UNIVERSITY OF
WESTERN AUSTRALIA
Achieve International Excellence