Globalisation, Growth and (In)Equality

5th Annual Conference Centre for the Study of Globalisation and Regionalisation

Scarman House University of Warwick 15-17 March 2002

Globalisation, Growth and (In)Equality

Conference Themes

The University of Warwick's ESRC Centre for the Study of Globalisation and Regionalisation invites scholars and practitioners to participate in its fifth annual conference. This international event will focus on how globalisation impinges upon growth and (in)equality.

Inequality in the global order is not simply a division between the so-called North and South. Inequality rests in cleavages within societies as well as between them. Nor is it evident that growth resolves these disparities. Instead, global growth may disguise the lack of growth for some and cultivate myopia towards the persistent problems faced by marginal states and communities. Development is not simply a question of improved growth. Ameliorating conditions of material poverty and socio-political inequalities increasingly focus on 'capabilities', 'empowerment' and 'entitlements' of individuals, communities and nations. Assessing the social, political and economic modalities of inequalities in the context of globalisation is one avenue for re-evaluating the meaning, measures, prospects and quality of growth.

The conference will consider themes including:

- Has globalisation promoted growth?
- What has been the quality of that growth?
- What are the most appropriate criteria or indexes for evaluating growth and inequality?
- How has globalisation affected structures of inequality?
- What scope does globalisation afford for redistribution?
- What are the roles of state, market, civil society and global governance in promoting a more equitable globalisation?

Chairs and paper presenters have been drawn from about twenty countries. They include 70 people from universities, government departments, non-governmental organisations and multilateral institutions. Their participation has been made possible with the support of CSGR and conference sponsors.

Conference Sponsors

The Conference has been organised by the Centre for the Study of Globalisation and Regionalisation (CSGR). CSGR is supported by the UK Economic and Social Research Council and the University of Warwick. Inaugurated on 1 October 1997, it is the largest research centre dealing with the study of globalisation and regionalisation in Europe. CSGR has become an international site for research in this area. The research agenda of the Centre deals with the definition of globalisation, its impact and policy implications.

There are two core sponsors for the conference:

UK Department for International Development (DfID) Global Development Network (GDN).

DfID is a UK Government department working to promote sustainable development and eliminate world poverty (www.dfid.gov.uk). The central focus of the Government's policy, set out in the 1997 White Paper on International Development, is a commitment to the International Development Targets to halve the proportion of people living in extreme poverty by 2015. Associated targets include basic health care provision and universal access to primary education by the same date. A second White Paper on International Development, published in December 2000, reaffirmed this commitment, while focusing specifically on how to manage the process of globalisation to benefit poor people. DFID seeks to work in partnership with governments committed to these targets, with business, civil society and the research community. DFID also works with multilateral institutions such as the World Bank, United Nations agencies and the European Union.

The goal of the Global Development Network (GDN) is to support and link research and policy institutes involved in the field of development whose work is predicated on the notion that ideas matter. The GDN will aim to support the generation and sharing of knowledge for development and to help bridge the gap between the development of ideas and their practical implementation. Achieving these goals involves strengthening the capacity of research and policy institutions to undertake high-quality, policy-relevant research and to move research results into the policy debates, at both national and global levels. GDN facilitates knowledge sharing through regional conferences, the annual GDN Global Development Conference, and through electronic tools: a monthly e-mail newsletter, online discussions, and www.gdnet.org, the GDN web site.

Additional support has been provided by the Institute of Development Studies at the University of Sussex, the Anglo-German Foundation/Deutsch-Britische Stiftung. The financial support of the P D Leake Trust (a charity associated with the Institute of Chartered Accountants of England and Wales) is gratefully acknowledged. The Centre for Business Performance manages all grant applications.
