

2023 Warwick Summer School on Practice and Process Studies: The Body and Embodiment

2023 Warwick Summer School on Practice and Process Studies.

Wednesday 12, Thursday 13 and Friday 14 July 2023

In-person attendance (Residential and non-residential prices available),

The Warwick Summer School convenes scholars interested in practice and process studies in an open and multi-disciplinary learning community characterized by dialogue, discussion, and joint exploration. The Summer School is designed for those with an advanced understanding of practice and process theories. The three days will give you an opportunity to listen to world-leading scholars in the field of practice and process research, presentations from academics at WBS in the domain, exploring the topic of body and embodiment, and participating in research clinics. The event will take place in-person at University of Warwick, UK.

State-of-the-art Understandings

The first two days of the program will cover the latest advancements in thinking about and the doing of practice and process studies. The summer school will open with a keynote from Stanley Blue on his work on practice and process research. Attendees will have the opportunity to share their work during 'research clinics' and receive feedback on their work from peers and seasoned faculty including:

Davide Nicolini, Warwick Business School

Hari Tsoukas, University of Cyprus & Warwick

Jorgen Sandberg, University of Queensland & Warwick Business School

Katharina Dittrich, Warwick Business School

Rene Wiedner, Warwick Business School

Mira Slavova, Warwick Business School

Omid Omidvar, Warwick Business School

2023 Theme: The Body

In each summer school, we consider an advanced theme in practice and process studies. This year we will explore the study of body and embodiment. We are delighted to welcome Alexandra Michel and Charlotte Blanche. These scholars will explore a range of topics around body and embodiment discussing how they have studied body in their work, what methodological tools they have in their ethnographic repertoire and what theoretical lenses they engage. Alexandra Michel is an organizational ethnographer known for her work in finance sector. Charlotte Blanche is an interdisciplinary scholar whose work spans dance, arts and organizational theory.

Attending the Summer School: The Summer School is face-to-face this year at Scarman Conference Centre, University of Warwick. We have two price points; residential which include 3 nights bed and breakfast, 3 lunches and 3 evening meals and non-residential which includes 3 lunches and 3 evening meals in the price. Both options include Summer School attendance from lunchtime Wednesday 12 July to the evening of Friday 14 July. During the application process please indicate your preferred attendance, residential and non-residential.

Warwick Practice Fellowship: We offer a free place at the Summer School for scholars who are affiliated with an institution outside of Europe, North America, Australasia or East Asia, or who are resident there. We are looking to support scholars who document practices in non-traditional settings.

Applications: Please include in your application a personal statement about your research and the reasons for attending the summer school. Please indicate if you are planning on attending the 'research clinics' and/ or if you would like to be considered for the Warwick Practice Fellowship.

Application form and application deadline

For more information click here and to apply click here

2023 Warwick Summer School 12 -14 July application deadline

Friday 17
March 2023

Registration fees

The fee is dependent on whether you are attending as a residential or non-residential participant

Residential includes three nights bed and breakfast at Scarman Conference Centre, three lunches and three evening meals as well as Summer School attendance. From 12pm Wednesday 12 July to check- out on Saturday 15 July 2023. Fee: £685.00

Non-residential includes three lunches and three evening meals as well as Summer School attendance. From 12pm Wednesday 12 July to the evening of Friday 14 July 2023. Fee: £385.00

We look forward to seeing you at the 2023 Summer School!

