CANCER RESEARCH CENTRE

Fundraise to fight cancer

Joining together to fight cancer

Warwick Cancer Research Centre is Coventry and Warwickshire's only cancer research centre. Doctors and researchers are studying the cancer problem from new angles. Together, we are solving issues that have previously been unsolvable, and bringing new developments to the field of cancer research.

Your support will

Improve cancer detection

With your help, our Engineers and Mathematicians will develop faster ways of detecting and targeting cancer. Warwick is world-renowned for being outstanding at maths, and our advanced modelling systems will help predict the outcome of cancer treatment before it even begins. That means patients receive the most personalised and most effective treatment for them.

Create better treatments

With your support, our Bioscientists will keep discovering how cells in different cancers behave. Our Chemists have already discovered anti-cancer drugs which are less toxic and more effective than existing treatments. As we move towards clinical trials we are developing new 'smart' drug delivery systems to target just the cancer cells, leaving the healthy cells alone. This makes treatment more effective and reduces side-effects associated with chemotherapy.

Care for people right here and now

With your funding, our doctors will continue offering the best of care to their patients and find ways to help them through existing treatments. For example, we're running the UK's first clinical trial into scalp cooling which can prevent hair loss during chemotherapy. You can help us to reduce this side effect and help people through a really tough time.

"There has never been a more exciting time to be involved in cancer research and the Warwick Cancer Research Centre is actively contributing to this cancer revolution. By taking a unique approach and bringing together experts from different disciplines we are able to look at the cancer problem from many different angles.

Our main motivation is to make a difference to cancer patients; the way we are structured means that anything we do can be rapidly developed to benefit our local community as well as patients across the world."

Professor Lawrence Young

Director of the Warwick Cancer Research Centre

Organising your event

What inspires you most? Whether you fancy testing yourself with an extreme challenge, or want to run a tasty coffee morning, all your efforts will help our cancer researchers and raise awareness of their work.

There are five things to think about:

What

What are you going to do? A quick search online will give you lots of ideas, from bake sales and dress-down days, to sports challenges or quiz nights. Remember, sometimes the simple ideas work best - some of us are sky-divers, others bake fab cakes - both are great for fundraising.

2

Where

Where are you going to run your activity? Think through any safety issues and make sure you have a plan for them (we can help with this). Where are you going to advertise? Can your venue help? From word of mouth, noticeboards (use the poster on p.11), social media, websites and more - tell everyone what you are doing, and us too, so we can help promote it.

3

When

When will your event take place? Choose a date and time that suits the people you want to reach. When are you going to start advertising? If it's a big open event, remember to let local papers and radio know (they'll especially love any photos you have). We can help with approaching the local media as well.

4

Who

Who's involved in the event and who can help run it? Friends, family, local businesses. We can help with advice, letters of introduction, collecting tins, t-shirts, banners, stickers, leaflets and more – just get in touch.

5

Why

Why are you doing this and how much are you trying to raise? It's helpful to tell your story so people know why you're passionate about achieving your fundraising goals.

Photos make the difference: keep them high-resolution, brightly lit, with lots of great smiling faces – remember, pictures of 2-3 people can have the most impact.

Gathering funds is easy: see p.7 for a sponsorship form and p.6 for advice on using JustGiving and how to pay money in.

Dr James GillGP and Fundraiser

Dr James Gill is a GP and a part-time lecturer at Warwick Medical School. James decided to fundraise to purchase new and innovative breast examination models, to offer training to medical students and GPs in identifying potentially cancerous lumps, and to help the general public understand the early warning signs of breast cancer.

James, a keen cyclist, set up Biking 4 Breasts: a 24 hour, 2,000km bike ride using static bikes and a relay of riders. He got support from local bike shops who gave bikes, promotion and prizes for the event, and promoted it on the radio and in the local press.

The day was a huge success, and his team raised enough money to buy five sets of breast models. These are now being used to improve early breast cancer detection in Coventry and Warwickshire.

Gathering Sponsorship

There are two easy ways to fundraise:

Online with JustGiving

This is perhaps the most effective way to fundraise for us. Visit www.justgiving.com/uow to get started. The more you can personalise your page by telling your story and uploading photos, as well as personalising your requests for sponsorship to family and friends, the more effective it will be.

Sponsorship forms and collecting tins

We've included a sponsor form on the next page. If you would like to be sent paper copies of this form, please let us know. To reclaim Gift Aid, we'll need your sponsors' home addresses.

We can provide collecting tins if needed.

Paying in your sponsor money

Once you have collected your sponsorship money, you can either send it with the sponsor form to our the address below, or set up an online transfer.

Thank you for your support - we will use the money you raise to change the lives of people affected by cancer.

Please sponsor me (name)	To help us claim Gift Aid:
	Please ask your sponsors to complete the form
For my event (details)	in legible handwriting and using their full name (not nickname).
