Picturing Resilience and Sustainability

David Cross
Reader in Art and Design
University of the Arts London

Presented to the
Symposium on Humanitarian Engineering
Convened by Dr Georgia Kremmyda and Dr Volkan Degirmenci
University of Warwick, UK
3 July 2017
CITY RESILIENCE

Is the capacity of individuals, communities, institutions, businesses, and systems within a city to survive, adapt, and grow no matter what kinds of chronic stresses and acute shocks they experience.
The sustainability diagram as additive colour (2013)
Frank Borman, James Lovell and William Anders
Earthrise 24 December 1968
Charlton Heston as George Taylor and Linda Harrison as Nova
Planet of the Apes (1968), Directed by Franklin J. Schaffner
Courtesy of 20th Century Fox
'Global warming ready'
Diesel fashion brand advertisement (2007)
Flooded house, Somerset, UK
Architectural Review 21 March 2014
Hans Haacke
Rhine Water Purification Plant (1972)
Museum Haus Lange, Krefeld, Germany
Cornford & Cross
The Abolition of Work, 2007
One penny coins
Exchange Gallery, Penzance, UK
Cornford & Cross
The Abolition of Work, 2007
One penny coins. Exchange Gallery, Penzance, UK
Richard Box
Field 2004
Fluorescent tubes, residual electricity emissions
Lal Pir power generating station is submerged in flood waters, increasing a power crisis in Muzaffargarh near Multan, Pakistan.

B.K. Bangash / Associated Press (2010)
Paul Baran Centralized, Decentralized and Distributed Networks (1964)
RAND Corporation, USA
Mobile devices have changed how we live our lives

Image: saasbrand.com
A solar powered mobile cinema brings film and workshops to the Western Sahara www.openideo.com
The images in this presentation have been used not for profit, but for comment, scholarship and research intended to contribute to public benefit, which the author proposes constitutes ‘Fair Use’.

If you are the copyright holder for any of the images, please get in touch:

David Cross
Reader in Art and Design
University of the Arts London

d.cross@arts.ac.uk