31/14-15 California

CONSIDERED:

A paper setting out a proposal to establish academic and student activities and a physical presence in California (S.18/14-15) (Restricted), together with an oral report from the Provost.

REPORTED: (by the Provost)

(a) That, separately to the University’s explorations of the opportunity, the Vice-Chancellor had been invited to join the University Development Trust in a personal and unremunerated capacity and he had therefore chosen to withdraw from discussion of this item of business.

(b) That in line with the report previously provided to the Senate in October 2014, work of sub-groups to explore various facets of the proposed opportunity had continued and deepened, supported by a number of visits, including that made by a number of members of the Senate following the open invitation extended before Christmas.

(c) That appropriate due diligence work had now been conducted and that as a consequence of the outcomes of that work, a recommendation was being brought forward that the University should move ahead with the University Development Trust towards the development of academic and student activity in California, subject to conditions outlined in the paper, noting that the Board of Directors of the Trust itself had reviewed the Warwick Report and supported, embraced and agreed with the principles, conditions and purposes contained therein.
REPORTED: (by members of the Senate)

(d) That thanks be extended to those members of staff who had worked on the paper, notably Bob Hogg, Ailsa Chambers and Stephen Williams, and those colleagues, including members of the Senate, who had taken part in visits to California to explore the potential opportunity.

(e) That the proposal was welcomed by the Students' Union which was appreciative of involvement in early decision-making and reassured by undertakings relating to representation by students on decision-making bodies.

(f) That in Warwick’s 50th Anniversary year, the opportunity evoked the entrepreneurial spirit which had characterised the University’s early development and that embracing such an opportunity at this time would signal institutional commitment to seizing transformational opportunities.

(g) That gateway points identified in the proposal scheduled for Autumn 2016, Autumn 2018 and Autumn 2020 represented opportunities for risks to be fully assessed in light of progression of the project and a determination made as to the on-going viability and desirability of continued involvement in the project; it being noted that investment should be made to ensure that a decision to discontinue involvement at any of these points should not incur reputational disadvantage.

(h) That management of such a significant project on the other side of the world would present challenges and that consideration be given also to ensuring the maintenance of current levels of focus on the delivery of high calibre research, teaching and learning experiences at Warwick and ways of maximising the value of the opportunity in California to the existing campus.

(i) That making a success of the venture would depend on widespread engagement and support of the Warwick community, a clear and effective communications strategy and on strong leadership, enabling the project to capitalise on its transformative potential for Warwick.

RECOMMENDED (to the Council):

That the development of academic and student activities and a physical presence in California, in partnership with the University Development Trust (UDT), be progressed as set out in paper S.18/14-15, predicated upon:

(j) The adoption, in full, of the principles outlined in paper S.18/14-15;

(k) Continuation of any developments in partnership with the UDT to be subject to gateway points (with provision for ceasing further development) in Autumn 2016, Autumn 2018 and Autumn 2020;

(l) Provision for the Senate and the Council to formally review the progress of these developments at each gateway point based on the principles outlined in paper S.18/14-15 with provision for escalation to both bodies at any point in the event that any of these principles are breached;
The establishment of clear work streams and governance arrangements to implement the project as outlined within paper S.18/14-15, with clear and transparent reporting of progress through appropriate Warwick committees and a standing report at each meeting of the Senate and the Council.
