

Daniel A. Levinthal is the Reginald H. Jones Professor of Corporate Strategy at the Wharton School, University of Pennsylvania. He has published extensively on questions of organizational adaptation and industry evolution, particularly in the context of technological change. The Economic Journal recognized his paper with Cohen as one of the 13 most influential publications in its 125 year history. He is a past winner of the Strategic Management Society's Best Paper prize and is a Fellow of the Strategic Management Society. He is also a Fellow of the Academy of Management and has received the Distinguished Scholar Award from the Organization and Management Theory Division of the Academy of Management. The Academy of Management has awarded him the Irwin Educator of the Year award for his work with doctoral students. Levinthal currently serves as Editor-in-Chief of Strategy Science and has previously served as the Editor-in-Chief of Organization Science and Department Editor for Business Strategy at Management Science. He has received an honorary doctorate from the University of Southern Denmark and the University of Tilburg and has held visiting professorships at the Harvard Business School, the Sant'Anna School of Advanced Studies, University of New South Wales, and LUISS University.