INTRODUCTION

The idea for this Sources Booklet to mark the centenary of the British motor industry originated with the Modern Records Centre, which has a significant holding of business records of various motor manufacturers formerly within British Leyland, deposited under an agreement of 1983 with the British Motor Industry Heritage Trust (then BL Heritage Ltd.). (The Centre also holds some business records of the motor industry and trade from other sources and extensive records on industrial relations in the industry.) As well as Coventry firms, such as Standard-Triumph, or those which had their origin in Coventry, for example Rover, the Centre also holds records of firms located elsewhere, such as AEC (Southall), Crossley (Manchester), and Jensen (West Bromwich).

The holdings of the British Motor Industry Heritage Trust (Heritage Centre, Banbury Road, Gaydon, Warwickshire CV35 0BJ), which are not described in this Sources Booklet, include production records, engineering drawings, technical and sales literature, photographs and films, as well as such record groups as the Miles Thomas Papers. Also excluded from this Sources Booklet are references to the records of engineering firms closely associated with the motor industry, such as Alfred Herbert Ltd., manufacturers of machine tools, and the records of the cycle and motor cycle industry. An exception is made for firms such as Rover, which moved from one product to another. It should be realised that the length of an individual entry in this booklet does not necessarily bear a direct relationship to the size or significance of the records concerned.

Some references to marque histories are given under the relevant company. The following general works may also be noted: G.N. Georganos (ed.), Britain’s motor industry: the first hundred years (1995); R. Church, The rise and decline of the British motor industry (1994); B. Long, The marques of Coventry (1990); J. Wood, Wheels of misfortune (1988); D. Thoms & T. Donnelly, The motor car industry in Coventry since the 1890s (1985); K. Richardson, The British motor industry 1896-1939 (1977).

The widening of the range of this Sources Booklet, to bring in sources of automotive history in other repositories within Coventry, was suggested by the Director of the Museum of British Road Transport, Coventry. The Centre is pleased to be able to take this opportunity to thank Barry Littlewood for this fruitful suggestion and also all those who have collaborated in the compilation of this Sources Booklet.

Researchers intending to visit any of the repositories featured in this Sources Booklet are strongly urged to make prior arrangements for their visit.
BP ARCHIVE
University of Warwick Library
Coventry CV4 7AL

In 1993 the BP Archive was relocated to the University of Warwick, where it occupies premises in the Library extension adjacent to the Modern Records Centre. Its two miles of records document the history of the company from the incorporation of the Anglo-Persian Oil Co. in 1909, covering planning, exploration, refining, marketing and distribution, research and technical development. Material of relevance to automotive history includes early British petrol advertising, photographs, information booklets produced for dealers and customers, UK petroleum statistics, etc. Records pre-dating 1955 are currently open for research.

COVENTRY CITY RECORD OFFICE

ARMSTRONG SIDDELEY MOTORS Ltd.

Formed in 1906 as the Deasy Motor Car Manufacturing Co., the firm became the Siddeley Deasy Motor Car Co. in 1912. In the following years, especially during the First World War, the firm expanded its activities, firstly by setting up or purchasing subsidiary firms such as Stoneleigh Motors and the Burlington Carriage Co., and secondly by entering aeroplane engine and later aeroplane manufacture. In 1919 Armstrong Whitworth purchased all preference and ordinary shares of the Siddeley Deasy Motor Car Co. and the Armstrong Whitworth Development Co. was created as a subsidiary of Armstrong Whitworth, and had the following newly established firms as its own subsidiaries: Armstrong Siddeley Motors; the Sir W.G. Armstrong Whitworth Aircraft Co., and the various subsidiaries of the former Siddeley Deasy Motor Car Co. Initially the Sir W.G. Armstrong Whitworth Aircraft Co. was created in 1920 as a subsidiary of Armstrong Siddeley Motors Ltd. In December 1926 the Armstrong Siddeley Development Co. and all its subsidiaries were purchased from the parent company and in March 1927 it changed its name to the Armstrong Siddeley Development Co. On his retirement in 1935 Siddeley sold all his interest in the Armstrong Siddeley Development Co. to Hawker Aircraft and a new group, Hawker Siddeley Aircraft, was formed. This group held all the share capital of the Armstrong Siddeley Development Co. and half the ordinary share capital of Hawker Aircraft. At the time of sale the Armstrong Siddeley Development Company consisted of Armstrong Siddeley Motors (the firm whose records form the bulk of those listed here), Sir W.G.
Armstrong Whitworth Aircraft; A.V. Roe and Co. (purchased in 1928); Stoneleigh Motors; Burlington Carriage Co. and Air Service Training. The group had substantial interests in the Self Changing Gear Trading Co. and in High Duty Alloys. The firm continued to operate, purchasing and forming subsidiaries until June 1936, when Siddeley (from 1937 Lord Kenilworth) retired. In the following years and throughout the Second World War until 1959, the group and also all its various subsidiary and associated firms continued to make aero engines, motor car engines and high quality motor cars. In 1959 the Hawker Siddeley Group and Bristol Aero Engines formed a joint company, Bristol Siddeley Engines. As a result of this merger, Armstrong Siddeley Motors ceased to exist and in 1960 the production of Armstrong Siddeley cars ceased. (Accessions 748, 1020, 1060, 1074, 1128, 1150, 1207, 1280, 1343, 1359, 1397, 1714)

COVENTRY CLIMAX ENGINES Ltd.

Founded in 1917 by Horace Pelham Lee, the firm made engines for light cars, generators and fire pumps and in 1946 started making fork lift trucks. In the 1950s Coventry Climax achieved an international reputation through its manufacture of motor racing engines. Between 1959 and 1965 vehicles powered by Climax engines won over forty Grand Prix races. The firm also made marine engines. Coventry Climax went public in 1951 and was acquired by Jaguar Cars Ltd. in 1963, which in turn became part of British Leyland. In 1981 Coventry Climax ceased to be part of British Leyland, and became Climax Holdings Ltd., which consisted of Climax Trucks Ltd., Climax Engines Ltd., and Climax Parts and Services Ltd. In October 1986 the Climax Group went into receivership. They continued to operate whilst in the hands of the receivers until 1 December 1986, when they were taken over by the Swedish concern Kalmar.

FORD MOTOR Co. Ltd.

The UK operation of Ford of America was established first at Manchester in 1911. The main production plant was opened at Dagenham, Essex in 1932. Other locations, such as the Leamington Spa foundry, were added later.
The Modern Records Centre does not hold a Ford archive as such, but the company, especially in an industrial relations context, features in a number of accessions, the chief of which are described below.

The establishment of trade union recognition and a Joint Negotiating Committee at Fords is covered in some detail in a series of files, 1936-60, in the Trades Union Congress Registry deposit. The process began with an initiative by Romford & Hornchurch Trades Council for a recruitment campaign in the Romford/Dagenham area. Questions of union recognition and demarcation at Fords, Briggs Motor Bodies Ltd. and the Kelsey-Hayes Wheel Co. were quickly identified, although their resolution took longer. Ford plants at Manchester and Leamington Spa, as well as Dagenham, are covered in this series of files. Topics include union recruitment, recognition, disputes, e.g. at Briggs, 1945, development and working of the JNC; correspondents include Lord Perry, chairman of Fords (MSS.292/57.4/1-15, 57.42/1).

File, 1936, re supply of Ford sub-assemblies and parts by M.B.K. Motors Ltd. to Jensen Motors Ltd., including notes re points agreed by Sir Percival Perry and Lt.-Col. J.T.C. Moore-Brabazon (MSS.215/3/MB/1).

ISTC reference file on Ford industrial relations, including agreements, handbooks, proposals, mainly 1951-73 (MSS.36 : F33).

The Standard-Triumph archive includes a file with references to the supply of Standard engines for Ford 'Dexta' tractors, 1960, 63 (MSS.226/ST/3/IN/5).

The Centre's collection of motor industry secondary documentation (cuttings, product literature, descriptive brochures, etc.) includes a section on Ford (MSS.226X/IND/21). This contains, int.al., Ford commercial vehicle product literature, 1968, 81, 88; 20th anniv. booklet on 'Transit' van, 1985; 75th anniv. booklet re Ford UK, 1986.

FORWARD RADIATOR Co. Ltd.

Founded 1919, controlling interest acquired by Mulliners in 1958; manufacturers of sheet metal work and presswork, almost entirely for the motor industry. In the late 1950s its customers included Alvis, Carbodies, Coventry Climax, Daimler, Humber, Mulliner, Petters, Rover and Standard.

Memo. & articles of association, including of Smithson (Tools) Ltd. (MSS.226/ST/F/7).

Standard files re Forward Radiator, including re ownership change and premises, 1958-64 (MSS.226/ST/3/FR/1-5).
GATEHOUSE MOTORS Ltd.

This Highgate firm was a British Salmson agent in the 1930s and a specialist dealer in used Alvis cars. After the Second World War for a time it engaged additionally in trade in ex-WD vehicles, especially jeeps. Dealings with other firms feature in the records, including Parkside Garage, Coventry and the Great Portland Street centre of the used car trade in London.

The records include: sales ledgers and other income & expenditure records, 1935-51; vehicle stock books, 1935-6, 1946-50; car storage account, 1939-44; commission account of F.J.C. Lohr, 1938-9; salary records, 1935-46; record of potential purchases, 1945; autobiog. note and personalia of S.C. Nash, man. dir., 1930s (MSS.150).

W.R.H. GILLOTT, car dealer, Sheffield

Mr Gillott diversified from his family's steel business into quality used car trading in the depression of the early 1930s. His pre-war stock included in particular Alvis and Bugatti cars, supplemented by Salmsons, Amilcars and Austin sevens. During the post-war vehicle shortage his basic stock comprised 8-12 hp vehicles, including a few vans and motorcycles, supplemented by the occasional Alvis and Jaguar.

Vehicle stock books (reg. no., make, model, vendor, purchaser), 1932-6, 1951-7 (MSS.293).

ISETTA of GT. BRITAIN Ltd.

Manufacturers under sub-licence from BMW of 3-wheel cars.

JENSEN MOTORS Ltd.

Originally coachbuilders, the Jensen brothers moved into quality car production 1935/6, to which for a time was added lorry manufacture, begun in 1939. This was later replaced by sub-contract work. After various changes of ownership, the firm went into receivership in 1976. After various revival schemes, the business failed again in 1993. The records described below were selected from those held by the Official Receiver; most are subject to a thirty year rule. It is understood that publicity, technical and later production and servicing records are held by Martin Robey Engineering Ltd., Nuneaton.
Agreements file, 1936-49; Volvo agreement file, 1959-61; various financial records, including monthly analysis of sales & production costs, 1947-58, general ledgers, 1951-67, papers re annual accounts, c.1957-71; correspondence files re projects, suppliers and other firms in the industry, c. 1969-74 (thirty year rule), press-cuttings and public relations material, 1970s (MSS.215). Some secondary material, etc., owned by the Centre, including Jen-Tug and Jensen lorry photographs (MSS.215).

MG CAR Co. Ltd.

Established in 1930 to take over from Morris Garages Ltd. the business of making and selling MG cars. The new company was established at Abingdon and sold to Morris Motors in 1935. The managing director 1930-41 was Cecil Kimber (Dict. Bus. Biog.), to whom the MG concept owed its origin.

MORRIS COMMERCIAL CARS Ltd.

Established 1924, taking over, first, the Soho, Birmingham factory of E.G. Wrigley & Co. Ltd. (in liquidation) and then the former Wolseley factory at Adderley Park. Its production of vehicles, usually of 1 ton pay load upwards, supplemented the light commercial vehicles made by Morris Motors. Reference H. Edwards, Morris Commercial vehicles (1992).

ROOTES GROUP

The Group, built up by Reginald and William Rootes, included such marques as Hillman, Humber and Sunbeam (cars) and Commer and Karrier (commercial vehicles). The Chrysler Corporation acquired a minority interest in 1964 and Rootes became Chrysler UK in 1970. However, Chrysler's global financial problems, a limited model range in the UK, and industrial relations problems resulted in sale to Peugeot in 1978.

The principal source in the Centre is a group of industrial relations records, deriving from David Edwards, TGWU shop steward at Rootes, Coventry. They cover the Rootes to Peugeot Talbot period, but with particular concentration on Chrysler UK. This deposit chiefly comprises: Joint Shop Stewards' minutes, 1960-84; Rootes AEU shop stewards' minutes, 1964-86 (1 vol.); extensive material, including company documentation, on pay & conditions, productivity, participation, Chrysler planning agreement negotiations, pensions, etc., between 1968 and 1984; papers re British t.u. meetings with Continental counterparts, 1979-85; press-cuttings, 1973-5, 79 (MSS.315).

The records of Standard-Triumph include two files, 1956-7, relating to private negotiations over a possible Standard-Rootes merger, including correspondence with Lazard Bros. & Co. Ltd. and Rootes annual reports, 1955-6 (MSS.226/ST/3/RT/1-2); also a file, 1946-51, which illustrates Standard-Rootes co-operation as shadow factory tenants (MSS.226/ST/3/MH/48).

The Centre's secondary documentation series (MSS.226X/IND/61, 136) includes a copy of the memoirs of Geoffrey, 2nd Baron Rootes, a few official publicity photographs of vehicles, some product literature, general brochures and press-cuttings.

ROVER Co. Ltd.

The firm originated in the cycle manufacturing business of J.K. Starley & Co. Ltd., changing its name in 1905 when car manufacture was introduced. The cycle business was sold off in 1912 and the motor cycle department in 1917. The New Rover Cycle Co. Ltd. was acquired in 1922, but the cycle & motor cycle department was again closed in 1926. Activities 1939-45 included the operation of aero shadow factories and tank manufacture. The Land Rover 4WD utility vehicle was introduced in 1948. In 1965 Rover acquired the specialist car and military vehicle manufacturer, Alvis, which ceased car production in 1967. Rover merged with Leyland in 1966. It was acquired by British Aerospace in 1988 and then by BMW in 1994.

Board minutes of Rover Co. Ltd. and its predecessors, 1890-1972 (MSS.226/RO/1). Executive Directors’ minutes, 1961-6 (MSS.226/RO/1/2/1). Shareholders’ minutes, 1896-1972 (MSS.226/RO/1/3/1-2).

Min. of Supply factory, Acocks Green [operated as an agency by Rover]: works diary, 1951-8 (MSS.226/RO/8/1). Property register (MSS.226/RO/7/LE/2); 2 photo albums of factory-building, 1960s (MSS.226/RO/12/1-2).

The records of Standard-Triumph include nine files on Standard-Rover merger negotiations, 1954, 1958-9, including the Allied Motors project (MSS.226/ST/3/RV/1-9).

Industrial relations in Rover and then British Leyland feature in the papers of Peter Nicholas, a Rover shop steward. These papers, which arrived in a disordered and damp state, include a group of files on Rover shop stewards' business, 1950s; extensive material deriving from and relating to BL and Leyland Cars, 1970s, including quality issues, employee communications and participation, bargaining reform, productivity, planning; AEU national, district and branch (Birmingham 168 BE) material; some international motor trade unionism items (MSS.309).

In 1995 Paul Worm donated to the Centre an extensive accumulation of material deriving from his research in the early 1980s into industrial relations in the motor industry, especially at Rover (MSS.356). In addition to several dozen interviews with a wide range of staff, the following minutes were included:

Garrison Street Shop Stewards', 1975-6

Rover Combine Shop Stewards' Committee, 1952-5, 1959-60
Rover Jt. Negotiating Committee/Collective Agreement NC, 1974-9

STANDARD-TRIUMPH

The Standard Motor Co. Ltd. was founded by Reginald Maudslay in 1903. The car-manufacturing interests of Triumph were acquired by Standard in 1944 and Standard-Triumph International Ltd. was established in 1959. In addition to cars, the company produced light commercial vehicles, especially in the post-war period, when tractors were also made. In 1960 Standard-Triumph was acquired by Leyland, the commercial vehicle manufacturers. From 1934 to 1954 Standard was led by Sir John Black, with a strongly individual style.

In the editor's experience, the survival of motor industry records on the scale of the deposited post-war files of Standard-Triumph is a rare occurrence.

Standard Motor Company Limited. The illustrated history - including Standard-Triumph (1993); G. Robson, various titles on post-war Triumph cars.

Board minutes, 1903-76 (MSS.226/ST/1/1/1-16); detailed decisions, 1908-12 (MSS.226/ST/1/2/1); board meeting files, 1959-61 (MSS.226/ST/1/1/18).
Executive Directors' minutes, 1950-4 (MSS.226/ST/1/5/1).

Standard-Triumph Engineering Ltd. minutes, 1960-73 (MSS.226/ST/1/8/1-2).
Standard-Triumph Sales Ltd.: directors' and general meetings, 1946-59 (MSS.226/ST/1/9/1-3).
Standard Motor Co. Ltd. Employees' Special Fund: trustees' minutes, 1952-65 (MSS.226/ST/1/12/1).
Triumph Motor Co. (1945) Ltd.: board and general meetings minutes, 1945-70 (MSS.226/ST/1/6/1).
Specialist Car Div./Rover Triumph Advisory Bd. minutes, 1971-5 (MSS.ST/1/11/1).

Printed annual reports and balance sheets, 1913-60 (MSS/226/ST/2/1/1-49).
Financial forecast and analysis files, 1960, 64-6 (MSS.226/ST/2/3/1-6).

Standard-Triumph records are particularly noteworthy for the fortuitous survival of an extensive series of files from the company secretary's and solicitor's offices, c. 1945-70 (MSS.226/ST/3). These have been arranged and are being listed in three main series:

Administrative (MSS.226/ST/3/A)
Main (MSS.226/ST/3/AA-ZR)
Overseas trading (MSS.226/ST/3/O).

The Administrative series has major sub-series dealing with Patents, Personnel & Labour issues, Property, and Trade Marks. The Property files (3/A/PR) include material on war damage, the Crown Assets agreement, Allesly service depot, London depot at Park Royal, purchase of Hawkhurst Moor Farm, and the Banner Lane, Canley and Fletchamstead works.

The Main series includes a sub-series on Sir John Black (3/JB/1-18), relating especially to his business expenses on behalf of the company, and also to company finances and policy. Another major sub-series relates to Standard's manufacturing agreement in respect of the Ferguson tractor, with its unique hydraulic linkage constituting the "Ferguson system" of agriculture (C. Fraser, Harry Ferguson: inventor and pioneer, 1972). This was followed by an agreement between Standard and Massey-Harris-Ferguson Ltd. after Ferguson sold to Massey-Harris in 1953, then by Standard's sale of its tractor interests to Massey in 1959. These agreements, and the assembly of tractors in France (Soc. Standard-Hotch Kiss), give rise to the major sub-series 3/F/1-18, 3/MH/1-72 and 3/SH/1-15. Other topics represented include the supply of industrial engines, int. al. to Auto Diesels Ltd. (3/IN/1-6, 3/AD/1-7); manufacture of the Avon jet engine (3/AV/1-12); the development of plant at Speke, Liverpool (3/L/1-2; 3/LI/1-24).

Manufacturers originally related to Standard as suppliers, then subsequently acquired by them, give rise to distinct groups of files. These firms include: Alford & Alder/Aldorfer Newton Ltd., axle, suspension & steering gear specialists (3/AA/1-15); Beans Industries Ltd., acquired for their foundry capacity (MSS.226/ST/3/BI/1-26); Forward Radiator Co. Ltd., sheet metal and presswork (MSS.226/ST/3/FR/1-5); Mulliners Ltd., body builders (MSS.226/ST/3/MU/1-22).

Records of some of these acquired suppliers are also present in the Heritage Trust deposit and are listed in this Sources Booklet under their own names.

The Overseas trading series includes several major sub-series relating to Standard-Triumph trading/assembly in a number of overseas countries. The principal ones are:

Belgium: 1956-63 (3/O/B/1-10) : includes assembly project.

Canada: 1949-62 (3/O/CA/1-21) : includes problems with some distributors; excess stock; industrial engine.

Eire: files re McEntagart Bros., concessionaires & assemblers, their takeover, reorganisation, further assembly plans, 1951-65 (MSS.226/ST/3/O/EI/1-8).

India: files, 1950-71, re establishment and operations of Standard Motor Products of India Ltd., its car and tractor assembly and component manufacture. The series includes correspondence with Harry Ferguson Ltd. and Harry Ferguson of India Ltd., 2 files of correspondence with International Finance Corporation, 1956-8, and photographs of visit by A. Dick and M. Whitfield to SMPI, 1958 (MSS.226/ST/3/O/IN/1-17).

Spain: 5 files re interest in Spanish market and assembly possibilities, 1952-64 (MSS.226/ST/3/O/SP/1-5).

Other material relevant to Standard-Triumph

Works conf. files of the former Coventry & District Engineering Employers Association relate to Standard and other Coventry motor firms (MSS.66).

Professor Seymour Melman's notes and collected material for Decision-making and productivity (1958), which relate in particular to the Standard Motor Co. The deposit also includes a file of Massey-Ferguson data, 1977 (MSS.254).

R.J. (Dick) Stynes' file, mainly re Standard Workers' Strike Committee against redundancies, 1956; interview with Stynes, 1977 (MSS.145).

VAUXHALL MOTORS Ltd.

The Centre can only provide scattered references; as far as is known, the company's records remain in its own custody (including a filing cabinet of 'rescued' documentation in the Vauxhall Heritage Centre).

The Centre's motor industry secondary documentation collection includes booklets on Vauxhall's Luton & Dunstable (1957) and Ellesmere Port (1973) works; on the company and its products (1938, 1966); Vauxhall engineering leadership (1938); product literature, etc., on the former Bedford commercial vehicle range (MSS.226X/IND/60).

VEHICLE BUILDING

The Centre holds extensive records of the National Union of Vehicle Builders, including some predecessors' records (MSS.126/VB) and extensive records of the National Union of Sheet Metal Workers and some predecessors' records
Individual vehicle, body and component manufacturers can be identified in the records.

VULCAN MOTOR & ENGINEERING Co. (1906) Ltd.

Primarily commercial vehicle manufacturers; 1919/20 a member of the Harper-Bean consortium; in receivership 1931. Taken over by Tilling-Stevens and transferred from Southport to Maidstone 1938.

STANDARD-TRIUMPH

The bulk of the Museum's coverage of Standard-Triumph is provided by the Belgrove Collection. Walter James Belgrove was with the Triumph Motor Company from 1927, and rose to be chief stylist and body engineer of Standard-Triumph, leaving the firm in October 1955. His collection covers the period 1934-76, and comprises a wide range of business and personal material. It includes blueprints of Harry Ferguson Research, Lucas, Massey Ferguson, Morris, Pressed Steel Fisher and, mainly, Standard and Triumph products (also many design sketches of latter two companies' vehicles). There are many photographs of 1950s/1960s American and European cars (interiors and exteriors) as well as some showing Harry Ferguson prototypes and Standard-Triumph models c.1930s-60s. Additionally, there are several thousand pages of business and personal correspondence. Accession content still under examination.

Principal sections of the Belgrove Collection include:

Harry Ferguson Research
Approx. 50 engineering drawings of cars/components, early 1960s, of Ferguson prototype four-wheel-drive vehicles, eg. Project 99 racing car, R4/2 and R5/2 saloons.
Standard-Triumph
Approx. 100 blueprints, designs and sketches of cars, 1934-55.
Many letters, internal mema. and reports: content still under examination.
Photographs: approx. 80 in Belgrove Collection; approx. 250 other photographs of cars and factory interior/exterior views, c. 1910-80 are also held.

White & Poppe Ltd. (engine builders)
Holbrook Lane site plans, 1916 (No.10 National (Shell) Loading Factory) and 1929 (W&P Works). 20 photographs of factory interior, 1920s.
Approx. 100 engineering drawings 1909-32.

VEHICLE MANUFACTURERS' SALES BROCHURES

Thousands of sales brochures are held in the archive for a wide range of cycle, motorcycle and motorcar manufacturers. The collection is constantly added to and ranges from AC, Allard and Armstrong Siddeley, through HRG, Humber and Invicta, to TVR, Vauxhall and Wolseley. Several dozen foreign car manufacturers are also represented. Commercial vehicle catalogues also feature in the collection, from AEC, Austin and AWD to Standard, Thornycroft and Volvo.
