UNIVERSITY OF WARWICK
GRADUATE SCHEME
PLACEMENT GUIDE

This document is designed to provide an overview of the University of Warwick Graduate Scheme. It includes an outline of the scheme, information for the graduate trainees, placement managers, mentors and scheme manager.

Introduction to the University of Warwick Graduate Scheme

A University of Warwick Graduate Scheme was proposed after the cessation of the Ambitious Future Graduate Scheme which Warwick has been a part of. It is recognised that the graduate scheme is a key talent pipeline for University of Warwick. The scheme has been designed to take the elements which worked well from Ambitious Futures whilst also considering University of Warwick’s specific workforce development needs.

Scheme Aim
The scheme aims to align with the University’s long-term people and talent strategy, which is to attract graduate-level talent with the ability to develop in the following areas:

- Agile focus – able to seamlessly work in different areas of the University, understanding local priorities and the link with overarching strategic aims.
- External focus – developing an ability to work with internal and external stakeholders, using the skills learnt within the University setting to support external partners.
- Emergent leadership ability – confidently collaborate across functions and grades.

Graduates enter the scheme at grade 5, with a view that by the end of the three-year scheme, will be operating at considerable strength in their grade 5 roles, with potential to successfully attain a Grade 6 role within their fourth year.

Long-term Aim
Following the three-year programme, the scheme aims to (based on University appetite) identify graduate trainees as having further potential to move into senior roles, enrolling them on a follow-on ‘high potential leader’ programme with the expectation that they reach a leadership role. This follow-on programme consists of exposure to significant projects, mentoring, coaching along with additional, relevant, apprenticeship programme and internal leadership development.

Aligning with the Talent strategy, a follow-on high potential leader programme would aim to fast-track graduates into Grade 8 roles (after a further 2 or 3 years), taking advantage of further Apprenticeship programmes such as MSc in Management for Future Leaders, together with live people leadership/team leader roles.
Graduate Scheme Programme

Our three-year programme is designed to give the graduate trainees everything they need to start their leadership career. In the first two years, they will complete three, eight-month placements: two internal placements along with a placement with an external small company or charity within our local community. The final, year-long placement, enables them to put their new project management qualification into practice within a substantial business project.

The placements are structured to give them exposure to a range of different areas of the University and enable Warwick to have additional project support where needed, ensuring the graduate trainees have the skills necessary to potentially undertake a grade 6 role at the end of the scheme. Typically, they will be involved in activities such as:

- Immersing themselves in key departments to understand the role they play within the University, learning how they operate and using this knowledge to deliver new initiatives.
- Learning how to solve problems, conducting root cause analysis, working with senior leaders to plan solutions as well as project manage their implementation.
- Working alongside existing experts to deliver operational excellence.

!Placement Schedule Diagram

The four key elements as outlined below.

- To provide graduate trainees with a good overview of the scheme, its purpose, benefits, structure and organisation
- To establish the new cohort as a cohesive and supportive network
- To instil a sense of enthusiasm and excitement for the scheme, and the profession
- To provide new graduate trainees with an introduction to the nature of Higher Education, governance and funding.
Development Programme

The programme has the following elements to ensure there is development of knowledge and skills in a supported environment, enabling each trainee to have some consistency as well as utilising the coaching to enable each trainee to have a personalised experience.

Project Management Qualification
The graduate trainees will be undertaking a project management qualification. This will be funded via the apprenticeship levy and 20% of their working week needs to be dedicated to this; in the form of workshops, reflective practice, assignments and coaching. This is mandatory as it is a core part of the development programme and is an invaluable learning experience for the trainees.

The programme will commence in January 2022 to enable the first few months to be focussed on their induction and settling into Warwick. The programme will cover key project management areas. It is essential that the graduate trainee has exposure to project management whilst undertaking their placement so they can evidence the required learning. The trainee will be able to share details of the module they are undertaking during the duration of each placement.

The project management programme will finish around the same time as the last placement starts, enabling the learning to be put into practice in the final year.
Group Coaching
Graduate trainees will take part in group coaching sessions to help consolidate their learning and to develop self-reflective practice. The coaching sessions enable the trainees to share and discuss current issues in a confidential and supportive environment. Our trainees will also be part of a HEI Community of Practice with University of Nottingham and Sheffield Hallam University Graduate Trainees. Furthermore, they will be part of an Anchors Alliance Community of Practice.

Support
There are a number of different roles designed to support the graduate trainees.

Sponsor - Rachel Sandby-Thomas, delegated to Mike Hudman, Organisation Development Manager
The Sponsor has overall strategic responsibility for the Programme within their institution. Specific responsibilities include:

Placement Criteria, Selection and Management
As this scheme is funded via HEIF, it is essential that the activity the trainees are involved in it relates to the HEIF criteria. Please refer to the diagram below for examples.

The trainees’ placements are the key building block of their practical learning, and so it is essential that they are challenging and varied. They should provide in-depth exposure to University operations and development opportunities for the trainees. Placements are normally project-based but should be sufficiently varied to be stimulating; and can also include day-to-day operational work although it must relate to activities which are applicable under HEIF.
Graduate trainee job role and purpose

The University of Warwick Graduate Scheme aims to provide Graduate Trainees with a high quality training and development programme via a series of rotational project placements across the University, with a Professional Services theme. The role holder will work on a range of projects providing the role holder with an introduction to project management within the context of Professional Services. The role holder will gain experience of working with a wide range of key internal and external stakeholders on a variety of projects. One project will take place with an external organisation to allow the role holder to share their knowledge and develop skills associated with partnering with external organisations. During each project, the role holder will work towards a set of objectives aligned to the unique nature of the project, which need to be completed by the end of the work placement.

What Makes a Good Placement?
A successful placement is one which benefits the trainee through the development of their skills, knowledge and experience, and delivers tangible outcomes. The placement must meet the HEIF funding criteria; contributing to an economic or social benefit.

1. A project/projects the graduate trainee leads which will take approximately 8 months to complete and that has tangible deliverables and outcomes for which the trainee is responsible
2. A series of other tasks/activities of shorter duration
3. Some day-to-day operational work allowing the trainee to contribute to the ongoing work of the team in which they are based

Placements must be challenging and varied, but realistic and achievable. The trainee(s) must be appropriately supported to deliver on their objectives and develop their skills.

Please note, in parallel with their placements, trainees will undertake their project management qualification and development programme, approximately 20% of their time each week will need to be focused on these activities.

Equipment
The trainee will be issued with a laptop for the duration of the scheme. Any other specific equipment needed for the placement will need to be issued by the placement team.

Mid and end of Performance Review
The review is designed to be a supportive, developmental opportunity to assist the trainee to make progress and achieve their potential. At least twice during each placement, the Placement Manager should meet with the trainee to review their performance against the skills framework. The performance review form is supplied separately. The trainee should prepare by completing the form prior to the review. It is noted that there may not be the opportunity for every skill to be worked on in every placement.

Once the form has been completed, copies should be sent to the trainee and the PL. If there have been any issues or challenges during the placement, the PM should raise these with the PL to decide upon the most appropriate course of action.

Reflective Practice
The trainee is encouraged to regularly reflect on their personal development and progress, using a tool like Gibbs Reflective Cycle for example. This reflection can be then used at the mid and end of performance reviews and the 1-2-1 meeting with the Programme Lead.

Contract of Employment
Each graduate trainee will be issued with a 3 year fixed term contract of employment from University of Warwick.

Sickness Absence
In the event of any sickness absence, the trainee should report this to their Placement Manager and the Programme Lead should be notified. The Programme Lead will update SuccessFactors. Long term sickness absence (more than one month) or continued intermittent absences, may result in the placement arrangement being reviewed. Advice should be sought from the Placement Lead team in such instances.

Other Absences
For periods of absence which are not connected to sickness, e.g. compassionate leave, maternity leave and paternity leave, institutional policies should be followed. The Placement Lead should be notified.

Notice Period
The notice period of the graduate trainee should be in line with relevant Warwick policy.

Any Programme Manager who is aware that a trainee may be considering leaving the scheme is asked to contact the Programme Lead, so that the implications can be considered. Trainees are also advised that if they are considering leaving, they should discuss this with their Programme Lead.

Conduct
We expect that all graduate trainees will make the most of their time on the programme, to act in a professional manner and as ambassadors for Warwick University. Whilst on external placement, trainees are expected to adhere to their partner institution’s policies and regulations.

Placement roles may include access to confidential, personal or commercially sensitive information. Trainees must follow their host and partner institutions’ policies on confidentiality, data protection and intellectual property.

Social Media
Please refer to the Warwick policy. Trainees should understand the impact that any misuse of social media can have on themselves, their fellow trainees, members of staff or the reputation of the University.

Expenses
Expenses should be claimed by trainees in accordance with the institution’s expenses policy and agreed with the Programme Lead. If they relate to the placement requirements, the placement department will be responsible for the payment of the expenses.
