Learn how to identify and challenge bad behaviour

The university has partnered with 'Good Course Learning' who deliver text-based learning via your mobile phone.

This course explores important and often difficult topics, such as marginalisation, and anti-racism, with the primary goal of increasing awareness of challenges at work and study, whilst opening our minds on how to be a more active bystander.

All new staff, and non-desk-based staff are encouraged to complete this short module by simply scanning the QR code. You will then be auto enrolled onto a short course which will deliver two text messages, just 4 minutes long over two days, straight to your mobile phone.
