

Independent students who are Estranged

The information on this page is for young people who are thinking of applying to Warwick as an Undergraduate student for 2025 entry and are independent because they are estranged from both of their parents. If you are planning to apply elsewhere, we would encourage you to contact your university choices to see what support is available to you.

1. 'Estranged' definition

An 'estranged student' is a young person under the age of 25 who is studying without the support and approval of both of their parents due to a breakdown in their relationship – this might be their birth, step or adoptive parents, and sometimes their wider family members.

If you have also spent 3 or more months in care, please see our information for 'Care Experienced' students. Or, if you are independent because you have spent 13+ weeks in care since the age of 14 and were in care on your 16th birthday, please see our information for Independent Students who are Care Leavers.

2. Applying to University

Students apply to university through the UCAS application form. This form includes your personal details, personal circumstances (this is where you can tell your university choices that you are estranged), educational history, predicted grades (where applicable), your course choices, your personal statement and your reference.

We would encourage you to tick the 'estranged student' tick-box on the UCAS form so that your university choices are notified of your circumstances and can offer you appropriate support, information and guidance. You can find out more about this tick-box online here.

Would you consider yourself estranged from your parents (i.e. you are not in contact with and supported by your parents)?

Yes No

This question is in the 'More About You' section of the UCAS form.

Evidence

The universities you apply to may ask you to provide evidence of your estrangement status so that appropriate support can be arranged for you. At Warwick, we advise students to provide evidence in their UCAS reference (i.e. your referee confirming your circumstances in their written reference). If the university requires more information from you, we will contact you directly.

If you have applied to Warwick and have any questions about providing evidence, please contact our WP Lifecycle Team at lifecycleteam@warwick.ac.uk.

3. Applying for Student Finance

You can apply to Student Finance England (or the equivalent awarding body in Wales, Scotland or Northern Ireland) for financial support with your tuition fees and living costs.

Tuition Fee Loans: These loans are paid directly to your university.

Maintenance Loans: These loans are usually means-tested (based on household income) and are paid to you.

To apply for financial support as an Estranged Student, you will need to complete an online application form and apply as an 'Independent Student'. You can do this if:

- You haven't had any contact with both of your parents for 12 months or more; or
- Your relationship with both of your parents has broken down within the last 12 months and you don't expect this to change in the near future

If you are living with friends, in supported accommodation or you're living with grandparents or other family members, you may be considered as 'Independent' through estrangement. Should Student Finance approve your application, your 'household income' will usually be assessed as £0 and you will usually be awarded the maximum maintenance loan for at least the first year of your course. Depending on your circumstances, you can sometimes be granted 'Estranged Student Status' for the duration of your course.

There is more information about how to apply to Student Finance England as an Estranged Student online here. Please note:

1. You must provide evidence of your estrangement from a third party. This could be from your school, social worker, doctor, etc).
2. If you do not have evidence of your estrangement, you should call Student Finance England and ask to speak to an Estrangement Caseworker. You can also contact this service at estranged@slc.co.uk.

If you are independent for another reason (if you are recently bereaved, for example), please speak to Student Finance to discuss your situation. Please also contact lifecycleteam@warwick.ac.uk if you are interested in applying to Warwick so that we can advise you of the support available.
