

At the Centre for Applied Linguistics we offer several English language programmes to help international students to develop their English.

Generic In-sessional English support

- Ideal for international students who need to develop their general academic English skills for study purposes
- Workshops and group classes are available in Writing & Reading, Speaking & Listening, and Pronunciation.
- Special sessions are organised for Erasmus exchange students
- Registration is needed to join group classes
- Further details are available at: <https://warwick.ac.uk/fac/soc/al/study/learn-english/in-sessional>

Tailored language classes for academic departments

- Ideal for groups of international students who need to develop their subject-specific English language skills
- Sessions suit students' timetables and can be organized within any department
- Teaching is based around the needs of students' degree disciplines
- Further details are available at: <https://warwick.ac.uk/fac/soc/al/study/learn-english/in-sessional>

Year-round Pre-sessional English course

- Ideal for international students who would like to join an academic programme at Warwick but still need to improve their English to meet the entry requirements.
- A year-round intensive course that students can join for one, two or three terms.
